HOUSE CHANGES ARE FORBIDDEN IN OFFICES BILL

Rule Adopted to Waive Amendments; Vote May Be Today.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Prospect of any House change in sweeping legislative provisions of the independent offices bill, ranging from rotative Federal furloughs and 30-year retirement to a State apportionment standard for Federal dismissals, was precluded yesterday.

By a vote of 202 to 156, the House adopted a rule waving all points of order against any features of the bill and denying any amendments from the floor not sponsored by the committee. Under a five-hour limitation of debate, the measure will be called up late today or early tomorrow.

Approval of the rule followed House Appropriations Committee reversal of its deficiency subcommittee's recommendation that the so-called apportionment clause be modified to prevent separations from the service on other than an efficiency basis.

Disagree on Redraft.

The rewritten clause ordered by the subcommittee Saturday was dropped from the bill after members of the full committee could not agree on wording the redraft.

The fight to stop the clause, which endangers the jobs of more than 10,000 Federal employes from the District and of hundreds of workers from four States which have more than their quota of workers, will be transferred to the Senate.

A last-minute effort to modify a provision of the bill prohibiting pay increases due to reallocations to higher pay grades also was unsuccessful, although the committee reported an amendment having the effect of forestalling claims against the Government arising out of the operation of this section.

The "gag" rule approved yesterday, denying the right of amendment, was fought vigorously by the Republicans, led by Floor Leader Snell. One by one, members to the right of the aisle rose to denounce the limitations as "vicious." Representative Fred Britten (Republican), Illinois, chastised the Democrats for "allowing the administration to do their thinking for them."

Power to Cancel.

The legislative rider giving the President power to cancel transportation contracts, on which a Republican minority dissenting opinion was rendered in committee, met with hot opposition.

Scant reference was made to provisions vitally affecting Federal workers, but Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach (Republican), New Jersey,

U.S. Will Get Sunken Gold

Coast Guard Acts to Prevent Sea Battle by Rival Expeditions Over Merida's Treasure Which, If Removed, Must Be Given Up.

(Associated Press.)

If the salvage operations on the Ward Line steamer Merida which sank off Norfolk should result in the recovery of gold the finders—whether they like it or not—will have to turn it over to the Government within three days after they get it.

President Roosevelt's proclamation requiring that all gold of the country be deposited with the Government through the Federal Reserve banks on or before May 1, also provided that any person who came into possession of gold after April 29, must turn it over to the Government within 72 hours. This would apply to gold no matter how obtained.

The requirement, however, would not deprive the finders of a penny in value.

Whatever gold they find will have to be turned over to the Federal Reserve bank of the district, but they will receive an equivalent of other money for it. The finders could choose whatever source of money they wish, whether it be silver, national bank currency, greenbacks, Federal Reserve currency or Federal Reserve bank notes. When no particular variety of currency is asked in exchange for gold, Federal Reserve notes generally are given.

Norfolk, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—The Coast Guard acted swiftly today to prevent a possible pitched battle at sea, sending a patrol boat at full speed to the vicinity of the sunken Ward liner Merida, where rival treasure hunting expeditions were reported.

A request for Coast Guard intervention was received by wireless from the tug Salvor, flagship of the expedition headed by Capt. H. L. Bowdoin.

SPLIT BONUS ARMY POURING INTO CITY

Charges, Counter Charges Bandied by Rival Units; One Called "Red."

An army divided against itself—that was the situation in Washington last night as former service men poured into the city for the second encampment of the bonus army.

On one side is the Veterans Expeditionary Force, sponsored by the veterans' national liaison committee. On the other the Bonus Expeditionary Force, Inc., led by Harold Foulkrod, senior national vice commander, and John Newlin, of Pittsburgh, national adjutant.

The V. E. F. is communistic—they are out to stir up trouble, say the B. E. F.

"Who are these guys, Newland and Foulkrod?" inquire the Veterans National Liaison committee heads.

Emanuel Levin, of the Worker's Ex-Service Men's League, is one of the guiding spirits of the V. E. F. He is described as a Communist. He was instrumental, nonetheless, in obtaining aid from the administration—a promise to house the V. E. F. This promise is to be carried out—the V. E. F. is to be accommodated at Fourt Hunt, it was learned last night.

Mr. Newlin told The Post last night that he and Mr. Foulkrod went to the White House yesterday and were informed by Col. Howe, secretary to the President, that the administration did not know that Levin was a Communist. Mr. Newlin said that he

U. S. Agents Rescue Kidnaped RichMan

Freeport, Ill., May 8 (A.P.).—William Trevillian, 50, wealthy vice president of the W. T. Rawleigh Co., patent medicine firm, was kidnaped tonight by a gang for $25,000 ransom but was rescued a few hours later by authorities who had obtained advance information of the plot.

Trevillian, a relative by marriage of Rawleigh, millionaire head of the concern bearing his name, was abducted from in front of his office by two men early in the evening. They took him to a farm house near Durand, about 18 miles from here. There, authorities said, Federal agents pursued the abductors, raided the house and liberated Trevillian.

Two alleged kidnapers were seized at the Durand hideout. Another alleged accomplice was taken in custody here. Soon after the kidnaping Mrs. Trevillian was reported to have received a note demanding the ransom.

TWO BANKS FAVOR ORGANIZATION PLAN

District National Depositors and Franklin National Stockholders Approve.

Favorable reaction on the part of two restricted banking institutions to a suggestion embodied in the plan for organization of a new national bank sent to District National Bank stockholders Saturday by a reorganization committee was indicated in a second letter outlining the new bank plan sent to depositors of the District National Bank yesterday.

This letter, requesting the approximately 6,000 depositors of the District National to subscribe for stock in the new organization equal in amount to at least 10 per cent of their respective deposits, added, "It is believed, however, that if this proposed plan is adopted and the necessary subscriptions obtained, we will almost immediately become a part of a larger new institution, as two other banks in situations like ours have already adopted similar plans and it is expected that when their plans are consummated they will become a part of the larger new bank."

It added that "all the banks in the District of Columbia not now in full operation, will be given the opportunity to sell their prime assets to the new bank and thus, in effect, release a large proportion of the deposits now held unavailable."

Chester Wells, chairman of the reorganization committee, reported an enthusiastic response of stockholders to Saturday's letter. Officials of the Franklin National Bank also reported a most favorable reaction to the letter outlining its reopening plan sent to the approximately 7,000 depositors of that institution Saturday.

Conway, S. C., May 8 (A.P.).—"Doc" Phipps, 45, father of eight children, died today of gunshot wounds received when he attempted to part two neighbors who were quarreling over a parcel of land.

Florida Joins Parade Of Legal Beer States

Tallahassee, Fla., May 8 (A.P.).—Manufacture and sale of 3.2 per cent beer, wine and like beverages became legal in Florida today when Gov. Dave Sholtz signed five acts of the current Legislature.

Beer of a maximum alcoholic content of 3.2 per cent by weight is now sold legally in 30 States and the District of Columbia. Laws have been passed permitting its sale in several other States at later dates.

Pat Malloy Named Aid for Cummings

Pat Malloy, Oklahoma lawyer and former prosecuting attorney, was yesterday appointed Assistant Attorney General as the Senate confirmed J. F. T. O'Connor as Comptroller of the Currency and Harry B. Mitchell and Lucille F. McMillan as Civil Service Commissioners.

Malloy, whose career as prosecuting attorney made his reputation, was a Roosevelt supporter both before and after the convention. He was indorsed for Assistant Attorney General by both Oklahoma senators and the entire State delegation in the House.

Other nominations sent to the Senate yesterday by President Roosevelt were Richard C. P. Thomas, of Kentucky, as U. S. district judge of the Canal Zone; Edward B. Doyle, of Georgia, as U. S. marshal for the Middle Georgia District, and George Bliss Lane, of New York, to be a secretary in the diplomatic service.

THIRD OF FLEET WILL BE TAKEN OUT OF SERVICE

Rotating Plan in Prospect for Navy in Drive for Economy.

(Associated Press.)

In its drive for economy, the Navy Department has tentatively decided to place one-third of the entire fleet on a so-called rotating plan under which they would be taken temporarily out of service.

A similar rotating plan was put into effect for destroyers and submarines last year in an effort to reduce naval expenditures.

While the ships are being rotated they will be overhauled and repaired, thus affording a measure of employment at shore stations.

$53,000,000 Cut.

It was disclosed authoritatively yesterday that the Navy Department has agreed to cut its expenditures for the next fiscal year by a total of $53,000,000 under what it previously had planned to spend.

Congress appropriated approximately $308,000,000 for the department, and it had been planned to allow the Navy about $13,000,000 more of an unexpended balance which will be left over from the present fiscal year. After weeks of conferences with the Budget Bureau, the Navy has agreed to confine its operating expenses to $270,000,000, exclusive of any building program as an employment aid.

Recruiting Will Halt.

Recruiting will be halted for some months, because of the heavy proportion of reenlistments, and thus training activities in the four training stations, at Norfolk, Va.; San Diego, Calif.; Newport, R. I., and Great Lakes, Ill., will be brought to a temporary standstill.

When training activities are resumed, it is expected San Diego will receive a major share of the work, as the fleet is on the Pacific, and it is cheaper to train personnel at points nearest the ships on which the men will serve.

While there was no definite word, it was understood on high authority the Navy also has been working on a plan to reduce officer personnel by around 1,000 men.

Mrs. Pinchot Again Aids Child Strikers' Picket

Allentown, Pa., May 8 (A.P.).—For the third time in four days, Mrs Gifford Pinchot today marched in picket lines with "child strikers."

Today's picketing, the wife of the governor said, was a "special appearance" designed to get "the widest possible publicity," for her protest against low wages and long hours in textile plants.

Peasant Mob Slays 2 Roumanian Police

Suczawa, Roumania, May 8 (A.P.). Two gendarmes were killed here today when their company attempted to disperse a peasant demonstration. The farmers disarmed all the officers.

Rain and Warmer Today's Forecast

More rain is Washington's probable lot today, following yesterday's heavy precipitation, which totaled 1.14 inches for the 24 hours ended 8 p. m. Cloudy and slowly rising temperature also was forecast.

Heavy rains have boosted the total precipitation almost 2 inches above the normal fall for the first week of May.

The river showed no alarming rise at high tide last night, but the muddy waters are expected to interfere with the herring run, which attracted a number of fishermen last week. The rains yesterday held up traffic and made the fords in Rock Creek Park impassable.

COL. LINDBERGH ON STAND TODAY IN MEANS CASE

Mrs. McLean and Jersey Doctor Among Others Who Will Testify.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean will be the chief witnesses heard today at District Supreme Court when the Government hopes to complete the presentation of testimony against Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker, both charged with conspiring to defraud Mrs. McLean of $35,000 in connection with the return of the Lindbergh baby. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh arrived by plane from Columbus, Ohio, about 6 o'clock last night.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, following their arrival, went directly to the Hay-Adams House. During the evening they left for an unannounced destination and although it is believed they visited friends here, the colonel said last night that he was "not prepared to discuss his activities." They returned to their hotel suite about 10:30 p. m.

Jewels to Be Shown.

Mrs. McLean was telling of her negotiations with Means in Washington March, 1932, when she paid him $100,000 to get the child from its abductors when court was adjourned for the day. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, prosecutor, indicated that she would take the stand again in the morning, but that her testimony would be interrupted for Col. Lindbergh's if he arrives before it is complete.

Rover also said after adjournment that Mrs. McLean would show the jewels, a diamond necklace and two diamond bracelets, which she intended to pawn to give Means and Whitaker, as the prosecution contends, $35,000 which they were to exchange for $40,000 in "hot money" and also effect the rescue of the baby.

Crowd to Hear Lindbergh.

Crowds which yesterday formed a line to await possible admission to the already filled courtroom will be larger today due to the appearance of Col. Lindbergh. Mrs. Lindbergh will not take the stand, Mr. Rover indicated.

Col. Lindbergh's testimony will be a recounting of the kidnaping and murder of his infant son—in support

Farley Promises Patronage Speed

St. Paul, Minn., May 8 (A.P.).—A speeding up of political appointments by the administration, Postmaster General James A. Farley told a Jefferson Day banquet tonight, may be expected "from now on."

"The President and the Cabinet, • • •" said the Postmaster General, "have not had time to attend to the details of appointments. However, they are getting to it by degrees and from now on, we may expect an acceleration of the process of placing in office those sympathetic with our aims."

Though Farley told some 3,000 Democrats from the North Central States that "I do not think that mere friendship or even appreciation for political effort justifies an appointment, unless the appointee is thoroughly qualified for the work that is to be done," he added that "we know that for every job, we can find a Democrat of superior qualifications."

New Medicinal Liquor Act To Go Into Effect Monday

Measure Permits Physicians to Prescribe Almost Unlimited Amounts of Spirits for Their Patients Without Reports to Federal Authorities.

(Associated Press.)

The new medical liquor act, permitting physicians to prescribe almost unlimited amounts of spirituous and vinous liquors, will become effective next Monday.

Officials of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol said last night the new regulations to put into effect the legislation approved by Congress and President Roosevelt had been signed by Secretary Woodin of the Treasury and Attorney General Cummings.

Under these new rules, instead of physicians being limited to a pint a week for each patient they may prescribe as they feel justified and at any one time for lengthy periods.

For the present the same prescription blanks as in the past will remain in use. However, there will be no duplicates turned in to officials, and check would be made by officers only where there was reason to believe the privilege was being violated.

London, May 8 (A.P.).—Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, told Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, at a prolonged conference today that he could see no "insurmountable obstacles" in the way of America's tariff truce proposal, it was learned from high American quarters.

In the House of Commons, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald indicated that the fate of the American proposal rested with the safeguards which the British government has asked to protect Britain's tariff position.

France and Britain Start Bargaining; Roosevelt and Germans Talk.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Roosevelt's exchange of views with the representatives of Chancellor Hitler and with the Chinese minister of finances, T. V. Soong, was overshadowed yesterday by disturbing reports from abroad in connection with the due date for intergovernmental debt payments, June 15. It was announced in Paris that the French cabinet have decided not to make the payment of $19,200,000 deferred since last December, until definite assurances are forthcoming from this Government that the payment of $40,000,000 due in five weeks will be postponed. Great Britain, at the same time, was ostensibly bargaining for a similar attitude on the British

SENATE PASSES BILL TO CONTROL STOCKS

Plan Provides Protection to Investor Against Fraudulent Securities.

(Associated Press.)

Assurance of the creation of vast new machinery to protect investors against fraudulent securities was given yesterday by the Senate. It passed without even the formality of a record vote the Fletcher bill, already approved in principle by the House.

Although shaped to the same end, the House and Senate bills differ in scores of particulars. The measure went immediately to conference between the two branches.

So speedily has it turned over the major cogs in the administration program that the Senate recessed until Wednesday immediately after the vote, which came after only two hours of debate. The next big measure to be put forward on the Senate side probably will be the $2,000,000,000 small home owners bill.

As passed by the Senate, the securities bill carried an important amendment by Senator Johnson (Republican), California, providing for a corporation of foreign security owners to negotiate for resumption of payments due on hundreds of millions of dollars of defaulted foreign bonds.

The corporation, to be controlled by twelve directors, would be named by the Federal Trade Commission, which would administer the entire law requiring registration of all future foreign and domestic securities before they are offered to the public.

Holders of defaulted foreign securities would deposit them with the new corporation. Its machinery would be clothed with authority to take over

Girl Who Slew Killer Of Her Father Freed

Elgin, Ill., May 8 (A.P.).—Her story of how a 53-year-old admirer forced her to kill him or die herself won acquittal today for Loretta Schmitz, 17-year-old farm girl.

Her testimony interrupted by sobs, Loretta told a coroner's jury how Oliver Day, farm hand employed at her home, broke into her room a few seconds after he had shot and killed her father, John, in a downstairs bedroom.

Gandhi Suspends Civil Disobedience

Poona, India (Tuesday), May 9 (U. P.).—The Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, released from prison on the start of his 21-day fast for India's "untouchable" millions, early today formally announced suspension for one month of his civil disobedience campaign against British rule.

He simultaneously appealed to the India government to release the hundreds of men and scores of women still in prisons throughout India, arrested on charges growing out of their following him in his civil disobedience campaign to rid India of "British raj."

Gandhi advised the British authorities to take advantage of the month's truce. He said he might extend it for six weeks, but declared simultaneously that he intended to take up his political activities again at the end of his fast, if he survives.

NEW CLEWS LOOM IN M'MATH CASE

Safety Official Gives No Hint on Chauffeur's Fear of "Squealing."

Harwichport, Mass., May 8 (U.P.).—Just as the kidnaping of 10-year-old Peggy McMath was believed solved with the arrest of Kenneth and Cyril Buck, brothers, and their arraignment at Provincetown today, Brig. Gen. Daniel Needham, State public safety commissioner, announced tonight that he is working on a new clew.

Needham, given large credit for the safe return of the daughter of Neil C. McMath, Harwich boat builder, would give no hint as to the nature of his new lead.

His announcement of new information was made after he visited Peggy's family in their 22-room Seaside mansion. He said nothing to indicate that the new clew was based on the crying plea of Kenneth Buck at Provincetown today that he and Cyril were not the only ones involved in the kidnap plot.

"If I squealed I was afraid of what would happen to my wife," the 28-year-old jobless chauffeur and reputed author of the kidnaping complained to reporters before he and Cyril pleaded not guilty to respective kidnaping and extortion, and extortion charges and were held under $100,000 bail each for hearing May 22.

State Detective Ernest Bradford questioned Kenneth about the sup-

Spain Posts Guards To Handle Strikers

Madrid, May 8 (A.P.).—Governmental authorities were taking precautions throughout Spain tonight as the zero hour approached for a scheduled 48-hour syndicalist general strike.

Syndicalist headquarters here and in a number of other cities announced that the strike would begin at midnight and at other points between midnight and dawn tomorrow.

Highways were closely watched and civil guards, armed with rifles, patrolled the streets of the capital. Full reserves were at their barracks ready for a call.

Farm Holiday Leaders Rush Plans for Strike

Des Moines, Iowa., May 8 (A.P.).—While farm holiday leaders worked on plans for their national farm strike to begin Saturday, National Guard authorities tonight were preparing for restoration of civil rule in the farm foreclosure "war" area by the end of the week.

Adjt. Gen. Charles Grahl announced martial law would be lifted in Plymouth and Crawford counties, seats of latest farm disturbances, tomorrow or Wednesday, and that most of the troops now stationed there would be withdrawn.

Chinese-Russian Trade Pact to Be Negotiated

Nanking, China (Tuesday), May 9 (A.P.).—Negotiations looking to a Sino-Russian treaty and nonaggression pact will begin shortly between foreign office attaches and the new Russian Ambassador to China, Dmitri Bogomoloff, it was indicated in official circles today.

National Average Elsewhere Is 21 Cents.

DAIRIES SHOW HUGE PROFITS

This is the third of a series of articles discussing milk and cream prices in Washington as compared with other cities. The series is the result of a study made by The Post.

The housewife in Washington who is required to buy heavy cream for a dozen domestic uses finds it a greater drain upon the family treasury than does the housewife in other cities. The Washington family pays 35 cents for the same quantity of whipping cream for which the average American family pays 21 cents.

What is known to housewives as heavy cream has a butterfat content of 40 per cent, and it ranges in retail price from 15 cents a half pint in New York City to 27.5 cents a half pint in Chicago. Figures used in this comparison are from April records of the National Cooperative Milk Producers Association.

The milk bought from the dairy farmer in Maryland and Virginia, which is used for cream making by Capital milk dealers, is purchased at the rate of 15 cents a gallon, averaging 4 per cent butterfat content. To make a gallon of 40 per cent cream 10 gallons of this milk is required.

Cost and Sale Price.

So that to obtain enough of this milk to make a gallon of cream the dealer must purchase ten gallons of milk for which he pays $1.50. If this same gallon is processed, bottled and delivered to the doors of his customers, the dealer receives 35 cents a half pint for his product, or $5.60 for the gallon. This sum is what he receives for the cream for which he has made an initial outlay to the dairy farmer of $1.50.

The difference in the price which he has paid the dairyman and the price he receives from his customers is $4.10. The handling costs to the dealer are the amounts he expends in processing, bottling and delivering. He receives from his customers nearly four times as much as he has originally paid the dairy farmer.

Should the dealer bottle this same gallon of cream and take it to a retail store to be sold by the store owner, he receives for the sixteen one-half pints $5.12, or $3.62 more than the dairy farmer received for the milk used to produce the cream.

Prices on Light Cream.

Light cream, which is also used extensively by housewives in cooking, is also far more expensive in Washington than in other large cities. Light cream has a butterfat content

PRESIDENT THANKS APPROPVAL SENDERS

Unable to Reply Personally to Stacks of Messages of Congratulation.

(Associated Press.)

Warmed and encouraged by the score upon score of telegrams that poured in upon the White House yesterday in answer to his speech to the Nation, President Roosevelt last night gave thought to an early consummation of his plans for a "partnership" with industry and the boosting of commodity prices. There were, however, so many congratulatory messages that Mr. Roosevelt decided it would be impossible to answer them all himself.

Stephen T. Early, his secretary, explained this and added in a statement that "the President, therefore, has asked the press to publicly express his appreciation to the senders * * * and to tell them their overwhelming response defeated his hope to make acknowledgements to the senders individually."

Telegrams and letters came from Republicans as well as Democrats, from men known throughout the Nation and from hundreds unknown outside their own communities.

One message, signed by Raymond P. Lockerby, of Boise, Idaho, declared its sender was "with you stronger than horseradish." Another declared the President had hit "more home runs" than Babe Ruth.

Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois and candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency, described Mr. Roosevelt's speech as "perfect in every way."

Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, termed it "grand" and added to newsmen that "I strongly commend him for what he said about repaying the 1929 dollars with the equivalent of 1929 purchasing power."

Arthur Garfield Hays, New York lawyer, said he had been active for years in trying to build up a third party, but "I am now definitely a Franklin Roosevelt Democrat."

"Timely, forceful and convincing," was the comment of Speaker Rainey.

Representative Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, gave this as his reaction:

"It was good old common horse-sense; one that people appreciate and understand. The President took the country into his confidence."

Judges Appointed For Town Election

J. V. Turner and Benjamin Elliott were selected last night as judges in the biennial town election on June 13 by the town council of Falls Church.

Councilmen will be elected from wards, 1, 2 and 3, positions now held by J. C. Parrott, Dr. Julius Parmalee, and Charles Gage, respectively. Candidates for the positions must file certificates with the town clerk five days prior to the election. As yet no candidacies have been filed.

The council voted to change the name of New Hampshire street to Fairfax street.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO CONTROL STOCKS

the functions of any fiscal agents for any securities in default and borrow on the bonds thus deposited.

Plan for Negotiations.

The corporation would negotiate for resumption of payments due or in arrears, or arrange terms on which securities might be held or converted into new securities.

Any plan or agreement made would be binding on depositors provided consent is obtained from 60 per cent of the American holders depositing with the corporation.

The Reconstruction Corporation would be authorized to lend $75,000 annually for three years to the new organization, which, in turn, could levy a small pro rata charge on the bond owners to meet expenses.

Just before passage, Senator Kean (Republican), New Jersey, moved to strike out the provision in the general bill requiring directors of companies to sign the statements presented to the Trade Commission, but his amendment was rejected without a record vote.

Responsibility of Directors.

"I would like to limit responsibility of directors to those knowingly committing fraud," Kean said. "Officers should be responsible and civilly liable, but not directors."

Chairman Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, of the Banking Committee which drew the Senate bill, said its purpose was to protect the investor and honest business.

The only objections voiced were by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, who suggested that "vigorous prosecution" by the Justice Department of violations of mail laws would "do more than all the legislation on the subject."

Both the House and Senate bills provide for registration of security issues with the Federal Trade Commission, and for submission to the commission of full information about the issuing company.

The Senate bill would make directors and officers of a company responsible for statements filed with the commission, while under the House bill they would be liable for civil damages only in case they knowingly misrepresented the facts.

Senators Fletcher, Glass, Wagner, Norbeck and Goldsborough were named conferees to adjust differences between the House and Senate bills.

Needham's specific purpose in coming to Harwich tonight was to bring back the $60,000 ransom money recovered at Kenneth's home here Saturday and later taken to Barnstable County courthouse. The commissioner lodged the money in the Cape Cod Five-Cent Savings Bank as he apparently went about organizing an investigation for his mysterious new leads.

Remark of Woman Juror Defers Prosecution of Trio Accused of Plotting to Embezzle $450,000 From Insurance Company.

"Isn't that awful."

Those words, uttered by Mrs. Catherine R. Kreuger, 33 years old, of 1335 Rittenhouse street northwest, yesterday caused a mistrial in the case of three men, Mortimer F. Smith, John T. Risher and Daniel M. Gary, who were being tried before Chief Justice A. A. Wheat, in District Supreme Court on charges of conspiring to embezzle $450,000 from the National Benefit Life Insurance Co.

Mrs. Kreuger had been selected as a juror in the case, and she, along with the other jurors, had listened to the opening address made by Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins, the prosecutor.

At the conclusion of his talk, Chief Justice Wheat ordered the usual noon recess, and it was at that point that the remark was made. As soon as court reconvened, the Chief Justice ordered a mistrial on the ground that others might have heard the remark, and also on the ground that the juror had already shown a tendency to prejudge the case.

The trial will go over until next month and because of the brief time remaining before the summer recess, may go over until fall. The accused trio were officers or employes. The company is now in the hands of a receiver.

had to laugh out loud when Col. Howe told him this.

"Col. Howe is a newspaperman," he pointed out.

Mr. Newlin announced that a conference will be held at 10 a. m. at the White House today with Gen. Hines, head of the Veterans' Administration, and with Mr. Foulkrod. Mr. Newlin made it clear that his object is to convince the administration that it is "off on the wrong foot" in sponsoring the V. E. F. Mr. Newlin and Mr. Foulkrod want to be placed in charge.

But, inquire the V. E. F. heads—"who are these guys Newlin and Foulkrod?"

"It's one—of a situation," Mr. Newlin said last night. "There's going to be trouble and I firmly believe this is what the administration wants. They want our men to get stirred up with the communistic crowd and then call out the troops, stage a duplication of last year's show. There's going to be trouble."

"The B. E. F. will mass in Baltimore at 6 p. m. today, several hundred in number, and move on Washington," Mr. Newlin said. "We are going to Congress and say, 'Here we are—take care of us.'"

The V. E. F. is scheduled to leave New York this afternoon after massing in Union Square. More than 1,000 men are expected to leave New York, to be joined by 200 others in Philadelphia.

Incitement Charged.

The charge was made yesterday in a New York newspaper—based on an investigation—that the V. E. F. is being incited to use violence if necessary. Here is a direct quotation credited to a speaker at a meeting of this group:

"We want men this time who will fight, who will not yield to the police. Of course they'll have the police out. Of course they'll try to break you up. But don't be afraid! The 60 police who were beat up in Washington last year have learned, to their sorrow, not to oppose veterans."

The B. E. F. is supposed to be composed of World War veterans only. The V. E. F. is open to any veteran or his dependent who professes to have a grievance against the Government.

George Alman, who will lead the V. E. F., denied in New York last night that violence is intended.

Five or more delegations had arrived in Washington last night. Some were taken under the wing of the B. E. F. Others went to the liaison committee. Among the latter disciples were a group of 78 grim-faced men from Chicago. A Post reporter spied them as they were forming in line at Sixth and E streets northwest last night.

"Now, remember," their commander told them as they marched off, "we are going to a private home, act decently."

They were escorted by a member of the liaison committee.

75 From Johnson City.

Among men being cared for by the B. E. F. were veterans discharged from the Soldiers Home at Johnson City, Tenn., as an economy move. The men reported that they were ejected from a freight train at East Radford, Va. There are about 75 in this group, but only a few had arrived in Washington last night. Others were staying in Alexandria.

Other delegations were from far Northwestern States—brawny, tough-ened men from the big open spaces, who ate the remains of the scanty larder at the Volunteers of America shelter and went off looking for housing for the night.

Some are straggling in alone.

Some belong to the B. E. F. and some to the V. E. F.

Only yesterday they were members of the same army.

Secret Code Bill Back On Senate's Calendar

(Associated Press.)

The State Department's secret code bill was back on the Senate calendar awaiting action in the somewhat indefinite future last night after having been swiftly approved and then recalled.

The controversial bill came up during routine consideration of the calendar and was quickly passed without debate, but the Senate reconsidered its action at the request of Senator Johnson (Republican), California, in order to discuss it.

Conferees Are Delayed On District Bill Work

Delayed consideration of the independent offices bill yesterday forced further postponement of the House and Senate conference on the District appropriations bill, originally slated for tomorrow.

House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan, who will be held on the House floor two days by the independent offices measure, said a conference on the District bill can not possibly be called now before Thursday.

of the prosecution's contention that neither Means nor Whitaker had any contact with the kidnaper nor any "inside" information about the crime. Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh were at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday, awaiting clear weather to fly here.

Another important witness to be heard today will be Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, the New Jersey physician, who performed the autopsy on the Lindbergh infant. He will be asked to tell how long the child had been dead before the body was found.

Most of the morning was taken in the selection of a jury. Seven women were among those chosen. The jury is composed of Mrs. Celeste Baum, Mrs. Margaret Louise Brown, Mrs. Ernestine Scott Coe, Mrs. Nettie K. Fleming, Mrs. Lois M. Lewis, Mrs. Harriet Roy, Mrs. Amy Gertrude Smith, J. Harper Hetherington, L. Wakefield Nichols, Joseph C. Potts, John J. Scheuring and G. Lea Stabler.

Means looked his usual smiling, dimpled self. His wife and Whitaker's sat in the courtroom. Means' attorney is J. William Tomlinson, while Joseph Turco represents the other defendant.

Among the prosecution witnesses heard yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Fleming, who told what they knew of the earlier negotiations with Means about the return of the child.

During Mrs. McLean's telling of the lurid scheme, code numbers and the rest of the plans with which she says Means instructed her during the first of the days after she had asked him to help get in touch with the kidnapers, Attorney Turco twice objected on the grounds that the conspiracy should be established before any overt acts of the defendants were brought out in testimony. The court overruled the motions.

debt payment, also by withholding any action at all on the proposal offered by this Government for a tariff truce.

In this dilemma the President has instructed his ambassador-at-large, Norman H. Davis, now in London, to urge the acceptance of the tariff truce by the British government while his advisors here are studying the possibility of asking Congress for authority to deal with the debts under the same conditions as the extraordinary tariff powers now being drafted for him.

Speaker Rainey said last night that he doubted if the President would ask special authority from Congress for dealing with the debts, but that if the President should send a debt message to the Capitol, it would "receive most careful consideration."

The chairman of the House Rules Committee, Representative Pou (Democrat), North Carolina, urged speedy liquidation of the war debt problem. He said:

"This whole foreign debt problem must be settled and must be put behind us before there will be any real economic recovery in this world."

He declared that Congress would undoubtedly give the President any powers he asked for to deal with the debts, although some reservations might be appended to guarantee maintenance of the prerogatives of the Congress in the settlement.

A brighter side to the entire international picture was revealed following the visit of Belgian Ambassador Paul May to the Department of State yesterday morning. The ambassador had called to announce the unequivocal acceptance by his government of the American tariff truce. This happy inauguration of the American-Belgian conversations was attended by the visit to the department of the ambassador and Paul van Zeeland, director general of the National Bank of Belgium.

Later in the day the visit of the German experts, Dr. Hjalmar Horace Greeley Schacht and Ambassador Hans Luther, to the State Department was protracted to last until after 6 o'clock. At that time it was known that Germany accepts the tariff truce and that furthermore Germany will reduce her tariffs, "if the United States shows us how." The implication was clear that while Germany considers her tariffs to be already at the lowest possible point, nevertheless, they are willing to make further rectifications in a spirit of good will and cooperation.

Agenda Scope Widens.

The morning conference was devoted to a discussion of financial problems affecting the two countries within the scope of the agenda, while the afternoon's discussions broadened considerably and included tariff problems and other economic details. Those present yesterday at the German-American conversations included:

Dr. Schacht, Ambassador Luther, Dr. Rudolf Leiter, counselor of the embassy; Drs. Berger and Nordhoff, the technicians. The Americans were headed by the Secretary of State and Senator Key Pittman and included Assistant Secretary Moley, Special Assistant William Christian Bullitt, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell and Messrs. Warburg, Taussig and Feis, of the Department of State.

The greater part of the day's discussions were devoted to an exposition of the American position on the various points included in the agenda. The German delegation listened patiently while Secretary Hull enunciated the American tariff philosophy, Senator Pittman, the silver policy of the Government, and Dr. Feis some recondite aspects of tariff and trade.

The American fiduciary situation was a matter of paramount interest to the two German experts, Schacht and Luther, who were in a commanding position during Germany's precipitate career of inflation and her subsequent stabilization of the rentenmark, which they helped create. They were, therefore, most interested in this phase of the discussions. There was also some interchange of opinion on the merits of currency expansion by international agreement to reduce the gold coverage of moneys. At the present time Germany's is at the low point of 9.1 per cent while this Government still maintains a gold backing of 40 per cent and more.

Soong Parley Today.

Naturally there was no oportunity of comparing views at this stage of the conferences, as it will require some additional exchanges between the experts before a common policy can be sketched out.

The conversations which the President had scheduled for the Chinese Minister of Finance, T. V. Soong, were postponed until today. Mr. Soong in addition to being one of the outstanding men of his generation in China is also a fellow alumnus of the President, having been graduated from Harvard before the war. He returned to China where he quickly assumed a dominating position in the Nationalist government and in the councils of the Kuomintang. He is 40 years old and belongs to the powerful family that is sometimes referred to in China as the "Soong Dynasty."

Last minute preparations were going ahead yesterday for the departure of the American Ambassador to Great Britain, Robert W. Bingham, and the Ambassador to Paris, Jesse Isidor Straus. Ambassador Bingham will sail Wednesday and Ambassador Claude G. Bowers, the American envoy to Spain, will also leave on that date.

East Will Meet West By Telephone Circuit

Regular telephone communication between the United States and India will begin today through the cooperation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the British post-office. Kipling, to the contrary, East and West will meet through linking one of the transatlantic radiotelephone channels between the United States and England with a short-wave channel connecting London and radiotelephone stations near Bombay.

In addition to United States telephones, the service will embrace those in Canada, Cuba and Mexico. At the distant end it will, for the present, be limited to telephone systems of Bombay and Poona. A three-minute conversation between Washington and either of these cities will cost $45, with $15 for each additional minute. India will be the third country of Asia to be included in the network.

Connections with Siam and Palestine have already been established.

large, who has been jumping about from one of Europe's capitals to another, explained just what the Washington government has in mind.

The president of the Board of Trade agreed it probably was a very good idea, a high American source revealed, and promised he would take it up at once with his cabinet colleagues, and in due course let Mr. Davis know more about the British attitude.

The British safeguards, it was understood, were not an important part of the Runciman-Davis conversation, and the American hope is that they will not be mentioned at all until the world economic conference convenes, although the Americans desire that Britain's acceptance of the entire idea will be announced soon.

Mr. Davis' problem now is to accustom himself to mere waiting at his hotel while the cabinet, visibly nervous because of recent attacks based on Britain's new trade pacts, makes up its mind.

The prime minister is understood to have discussed the whole project with King George in a conference this afternoon. The king used the occasion to go into Mr. MacDonald's Washington visit and the current tariff agitation.

On good authority it was said the immediate objective of the present British policy is to arrive at an understanding with the United States on the war debt question without bargaining British concessions on the tariff truce against American concessions on war debts.

South to Confer On Works Plan

New Orleans, May 8 (A.P.).—A conference of governors to work out a plan of organized cooperation in fifteen Southern States for immediate inauguration of an immense public improvement program to be undertaken with Federal aid will be called at an early date in New Orleans, J. A. Rountree, director general of the United States Good Road Association, made the announcement here today after a series of meetings with city leaders.

Rountree said that his primary interest was in highway building, but that his organization favored issuance of between $5,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000 of Federal bonds to finance "all sorts of permanent public improvements."

He said the Governors of North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Florida, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Missouri, Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia would be invited to attend the conference here.

OIL MARKET GROUP TO CONVENE TODAY

Sales Meeting Here Will Be Attended by Prominent New York Men.

A large group of oil marketers, representing wholesale, retail and tank car divisions throughout Maryland, West Virginia and the District, will gather with representatives of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey today for their annual sales convention in the Mayflower Hotel.

J. Z. Walker, Washington branch wholesale manager, who is in charge of the meeting, announced that prominent officials in the oil industry attending will include R. G. Stewart, director of the Standard Oil Co.

The convention is one of eight being held concurrently with the recently announced unification of outlets from Maine to Louisiana. A newly adopted policy makes all affiliated companies uniformly identified as "Esso Stations."

Advertising plans will occupy a large portion of the convention program.

In addition to Mr. Stewart, the New York party will include A. C. Bedford, J. E. Skeban, E. A. Holbein, J. R. Riddell, R. N. Keppel, A. C. Minton, R. T. Haslam, J. A. Donan, A. S. Pawling, E. S. Hall, G. E. Wilkinson, and P. H. Bedford, jr., all of whom will attend other meetings at key cities from Boston to New Orleans.

Montgomery Asks Reforestation Men

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie was urged to ask President Roosevelt for members of the conservation corps for reforestation work in Maryland and particularly for Montgomery County in a resolution adopted last night by the Montgomery County Civic Federation.

The federation also indorsed the Boy Scout movement, the drive for funds of the Social Service League and the county officials' action in prosecuting perpetrators of an obscene show at Kensington, Md.

J. Harry Welch, chairman of the public utilities committee, announced that chairmen of the utility committees of each of the constituent bodies of the federation have been requested to meet Friday night at the Bethesda County Building to discuss public utilities questions. The federation recessed for the summer months unless called into special meeting by President Frederic P. Lee.

Governors Made Equal To Cabinet in Salute

Putting governors of States on a parity with Cabinet officers in receiving military honors, President Roosevelt yesterday amended the Army and Navy regulations to provide that governors shall be entitled to the same salute as members of the Cabinet.

The new orders authorize a 19-gun salute for governors, their former allowance having been 17 guns. Announcing the new regualtions in letters to the various governors, the President said: "I have felt very strongly that the same honors should be accorded to governors as those accorded to the members of the Federal Cabinet."

SUNKEN GOLD MUST GO TO U. S. IF RECOVERED

The message said the Salvor was over the wreck, about 60 miles off the coast, and asked aid to prevent "trouble with interlopers."

Capt. Bowdoin mentioned no names, but he was assumed to have referred to another expedition headed by Capt. John Hall, Gloucester fisherman, aboard the trawlers Theresa, Dan and Norge. The Hall expedition has been at sea about a week.

The destroyer Davis, flagship of the patrol fleet, reported by wireless early tonight that she was proceeding to the vicinity of the operations to investigate conditions.

A wireless message signed "Hall," sent from Winter Quarter lightship, said:

"Send cutter at once 24 miles south by east Winter Quarter. Having trouble over our position. We were anchored in position over Merida, our ship and buoy. S. S. Salvor came and placed buoy and anchored within our buoys, causing trouble."

The nature of the trouble referred to in the message was not stated.

Persistent reports have been circulated that the crew of the Salvor was armed, but this has been denied.

The Merida was sunk after a collision with the Admiral Farragut 20 years ago and is said to have several millions of treasure aboard, principally in bullion. Capt. Bowdoin's expedition claimed to have located the wreck and has been engaged in an effort to recover the treasure for many months.

Senate Votes Approval Of World 16-to-1 Silver

(Associated Press.)

An indirect call for international action to remonetize silver on the Bryan basis of 16 to 1 was issued yesterday by the Senate, formally lending its support to efforts to restore the white metal to monetary powers.

Without debate and operating by unanimous consent, senators approved a resolution by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, urging America's delegates to the economic conference to "work unceasingly for an international agreement for 16-to-1 silver. The resolution carries no legal force, and requires neither House consideration nor presidential approval.

Weddell already has been approved by the Argentine government for the post. Byrd said he would seek early action on the nomination.

MILK PRICES RAPPED BY TAKOMA CITIZENS

W. K. Norwood Is Elected to Head Association for Coming Year.

A protest against the high price of milk in the District of Columbia was made last night by the Takoma Park Citizens Association in a request to the Federation of Citizens Associations asking that the federation make a thorough investigation of the matter.

The association laid particular stress on the fact that the price paid the farmer by wholesale milk companies has been lowered appreciably in the past year, while the price paid by the consumer has been reduce but little if at all.

Officers of the association elected for the coming year are: W. K. Norwood, president; David T. Bios, first vice president; Mrs. Alcens Lamont, second vice president; Mrs. L. F. Fanborn, secretary, and W. L. White, treasurer.

A motion was passed approving the action of the Columbia Heights Association in its resolution favoring merging of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies. A second motion passed asked that the District Commissioners increase the fee for beer licenses.

The association also indorsed the Community Center request for $42,000 for operations during the coming year and appointed two members to aid in securing this amount.

Plans were made for special memorial services at Cedar Hill Cemetery on May 30 in honor of pioneer Takoma settlers. A resolution asking that movie censors tone down some of the pictures now being shown was referred to a legislation committee.

During the World War, Conant was called to Washington, where he served with the Bureau of Chemistry and Bureau of Mines, and, at the American University Experimental Station, was engaged in research connected with the development of war gas.

CREAM PRICES HERE LEAD OTHER CITIES

of 20 per cent and costs the Washington family 18 cents a half pint, while the average price paid throughout the country is 13.5 cents for the same quantity.

To make one gallon of light cream it is necessary for the dealer to purchase five gallons of milk having a butterfat content of 4 per cent. This costs 75 cents. If the dealer places this cream in half-pint bottles and delivers them to his customers he receives $2.88 or $2.13 more than the farmer received for the milk used in making the cream.

If the dealer sells this light cream in half-pint bottles to retail stores, he receives from the store owner $2.56 for 16 half pints or one gallon. This sum is $1.81 cents more than the dairy farmer received for the milk from which the cream was made.

The price which the family pays to the retail stores for a half pint of either light cream or heavy cream is the same as it would pay if it had the product delivered at the household door by the milk dealer.

13,582 Gallons Used Daily.

Light cream sold wholesale in gallon bulk brings the dealer $1.45 cents, while heavy cream sold in the same manner brings $2.90.

The average daily consumption of cream in the District is 13,582 gallons, of which about half is sold in gallon bulk, while the rest is distributed to the consumer either direct by the dealer or through the retail store.

The figures of retail cream price throughout the country as issued by the National Cooperative Milk Producers Association show Washington in the lead where 35 cents is paid for 40 per cent cream.

The prices in other large cities for the same quantity of cream having the same butterfat content are Hartford, 20 cents; Cincinnati, 20.5 cents; New York, 15 cents; Buffalo, 20 cents; Philadelphia, 26 cents; Baltimore, 25 cents; Boston, 17 cents; St. Louis, 23 cents.

Milwaukee pays 16 cents for cream having 35 per cent butterfat content; Chicago pays 20 cents for cream having a 36 per cent butterfat content; Kansas City pays an average of 27.5 cents for cream having a 35 per cent butterfat content, and Seattle pays 18 cents for cream having a 32 per cent butterfat content.

WOL Broadcast Tonight To Expose Milk Facts

Supplementing its current series of articles on the price of milk and cream in the District of Columbia, The Washington Post has arranged a 15-minute period, beginning at 7 o'clock this evening, during which many additional features of the milk situation will be broadcast through the facilities of Station WOL.

The Post's investigation of dairy product prices was prompted by the many letters received from readers in which they have pointed out the apparent discrepancy in the cost of other commodities as compared with that of milk and cream in Washington. Through the medium of letters written to WOL and read over the air by station announcers, The Post learned that radio listeners have also been expressing similar opinions and so will use this medium to present the facts thus far developed to those who may not have had the opportunity of reading the first three articles in this interesting series.

Fate Plays Hard With Injured Boy

Okmulgee, Okla., May 8 (A.P.).—Fate was against Paul Whittaker today and even less kind to his 18-month old son, Paul, jr.

The child was run over when the father backed his car out of his driveway. Speeding to a hospital with the injured child, Whittaker's machine struck a parked automobile, because the father swerved to avoid striking two boys on a bicycle.

Whittaker was injured severely while the child received more cuts and bruises. Neither was believed to be in a dangerous condition, however.

Rhode Island Delegates Unanimously Adopt Repeal Plan.

Providence, R. I., May 8 (A.P.).—Thirty-one delegates met in constitutional convention at the State House here today and unanimously ratified the twenty-first amendment repealing the eighteenth amendment of the national Constitution. The action, the third of its kind on repeal in the 48 States, was a formal ratification of the voters' expression when they balloted last Monday, 150,244 for the list of delegates pledged to repeal, as against 20,874 for delegates pledged against repeal.

The convention was called to order by Gov. Theodore Francis Green, who declared that this State, through its refusal ever to ratify the eighteenth amendment and its continued fight against it, had led the way toward repeal. He pointed out that other States gradually were turning to the stand which Rhode Island has steadfastly held in the past 13 years.

For the first time since the original Constitution was adopted, he said, the people are using their sovereign power to pass upon it.

San Francisco, May 8 (A.P.).—Col. Charles E. Stanton, 74, U. S. A., retired, author of the famous wartime phrase, "Lafayette, we are here," died here today with a heart ailment.

MAINE TOWN RAZED BY $3,000,000 FIRE

Ellsworth, Me., May 8 (A.P.).—Four hundred persons were without homes and the rest of this community was without pure drinking water tonight as the result of a fire that destroyed 200 dwellings and business houses. Authorities investigated a possibility that the $3,000,000 blaze was of incendiary origin.

Firemen from this and surrounding communities in battling the flames last night and early today drained the city's reservoir and forced the city to pump water directly from the Union River into the mains.

Mayor Harold V. Moore warned the citizens that the water now available was unfit for drinking unless boiled.

Origin Being Traced.

As authorities—State, county and city—were tracing reports that a man had been seen running from the storeroom where the fire broke out and that two men were observed hurrying away from a barn, some distance from the center of the fire, just before that building burst into flames early this morning, relief agencies fell into line to render aid and assistance.

Gov Louis J. Brann visited the city at noon and after a brief survey issued an appeal to the entire State to come to the aid of the stricken community.

He left Adjt. Gen. James W. Hanson here to command the 25 National Guardsmen who augmented local police officers.

To Ask R. F. C. Loan.

Gen Hanson was told by the governor to "get all the men and material" he needed to help the people there. Later this afternoon 50 additional guardsmen were ordered to report from Bangor and the 75 soldiers agumented the 100 special police sworn in to prevent looting of abandoned property.

Gov. Brann, in Augusta, said he would leave for Washington immediately after a session of the executive council this evening to apply for financial aid for the city from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Rapid City, S. Dak., May 8 (A.P.).—Six members of a family of nine were dead today as a result of an early morning fire and explosion which occurred when a father attempted to start a stove with kerosene.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wilcox and four children; Clara Luella, 7; Carrie Rose, 4; Betty Jane, 3, and Frances Eugenia, less than a year old. Three others—Charles, 12; Delmer, 9, and Johnny, 11, escaped. Carrie and Betty were burned to death in their beds, the others dying in hospitals later.

The small two-room house in which they lived was turned into a seething furnace a moment after the explosion.

AMERICANS IN PERIL IN JAPANESE DRIVE

Invader Forging Forward on Two Fronts; Heavy Fighting at Resort.

Peiping, May 8 (U.P.).—The Japanese swept relentlessly forward on two fronts today in their campaign for the subjugation of north China.

The Japanese war machine, moving southward from the Great Wall, endangered the lives of hundreds of Americans, British and other foreigners and their extensive property in and around Peiping and Tientsin.

Heavy fighting was reported at Peitaiho, popular summer resort on the sea, near Chinwangtao. Another battle was raging at Changli, where American mission property again was endangered.

The Chinese regular army units at the front fell back in confusion, dispatches said.

Gen. Ho Chu-Kuo, in command of the Chinese troops at the front, ordered a general retreat to their main defenses at Lwanchow, where the first real resistance was expected, north of Tientsin.

Japanese troops moved steadily forward on both their salients. One column moved down the Peiping-Mukden Railway, which passes through Tientsin, some 65 miles to the east of Peiping on the way here. The other units advanced toward Peiping along the Mandarin highway.

The latter column reached Yunping, where the highway crosses the Lwan River, and prepared to push on southward.

THE CASE OF CHINA.

Conversations between President Roosevelt and Mr. T. V. Soong, Finance Minister of China, are now in progress, and will be followed by conferences between American economic experts and Mr. Soong's associates. The delegation headed by Mr. Soong will proceed in due time to the world economic conference.

In spite of the conditions resulting from Japan's aggression, China is in a position to extend valuable co-operation in the world economic conference, particularly in the matter of enlarging the use of silver for monetary purposes. The market of China is conducted on a silver basis, and it is generally believed that a more extensive commerce between that country and the United States could be built up if silver currency were increased and standardized. President Roosevelt has alluded to the desirability of greater use of silver, and doubtless his conversations with Mr. Soong will facilitate negotiations to that end in the world conference.

Mr. Soong, however, is more than a financial representative of China. He is one of the leading statesmen of that country, and has been indefatigable in resisting the encroachments of Japan. The President can obtain from Mr. Soong a first-hand and authentic account of the nature and extent of Japan's invasions of China's sovereignty, and of China's plans for holding out against her powerful enemy.

That the story of China will be received sympathetically goes without saying. The United States was instrumental in consummating the nine-power treaty in Washington, which Japan signed, apparently in good faith, and China was gradually consolidating its powers as a modern republic when Japan violated the treaty in 1931. The object of that treaty was to give China an opportunity to establish domestic tranquillity and perfect organization of the general government which the people had chosen. Japan's aggression has not only deprived China temporarily of territory, but has greatly delayed the work of establishing republican government in China. The inroads of Communism could have been more effectively checked if China had not been preoccupied by the Japanese invasion. Japan now suggests that its invasion of China is partly for the purpose of keeping Communism from occupying the entire eastern Pacific coast; but the Chinese people and government, if not attacked by their neighbor, would have squelched Communism of their own accord.

The world economic conference will be bedeviled by the policy of Japan, in both the economic and military fields. While China stands ready to do its share in international co-operation for world commerce and peace, Japan undermines both by deliberately falsifying her currency and underselling other countries. The profits of this unfair commercial competition are devoted to the upkeep of Japanese forces that are seizing Chinese territory.

Japan is to have a delegation at the world economic conference. Will that delegation agree to equitable tariffs, stabilization of currencies on an equitable gold basis, and observance of treaties designed to promote commerce and good will? The world knows beforehand that Japan will not make such engagements; but worse still, the world knows that even if Japan should enter into agreements fair to all countries, including China, she would not hesitate to violate a world economic treaty as she has violated the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty.

It is a dramatic story which Mr. Soong can tell to President Roosevelt. As between China and Japan, there can be no doubt that the sympathies of the President and the American people are strongly with China. It may be that the Chinese delegate can offer suggestions of a practical nature for making American sympathies useful in an adjustment of the situation in the Far East.

WHAT EUROPE WANTS.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, has not been able to induce Great Britain to agree to a tariff truce. It is reported that the British government will remain balky on this issue until President Roosevelt can give assurance of another moratorium on the war debts. British statesmen have done a great deal of talking about the necessity of liberating international trade to cure the depression. But when it comes to an actual showdown they are not even willing to sign a truce against the erection of further trade barriers between now and the opening of the world economic conference.

For years European countries have taunted the United States for its alleged unwillingness to co-operate for improvement of world conditions. Uncle Sam was the goat at every international gathering. Now positions have been reversed. The United States is seeking to stimulate a great international effort to end the depression. Great Britain is hanging back and demanding concessions for her adherence to the policy she has been advocating for many years. France, too, has been forced to admit that protection of French industry against the products of depreciated currency in the United States is far dearer to her heart than co-operation for the removal of trade restrictions.

American idealists are beginning to get their eyes opened. European countries have played upon the elimination of trade barriers because they thought it was a good talking point. What they have had in mind all this time is the reduction of barriers on this side of the Atlantic. And back of all their propaganda on international co-operation is the hope that the war debts would be classed as obnoxious impediments to trade and thus would be banished from the paradise of economic relations.

Prospects of preventing the erection of new trade restrictions are not bright, but President Roosevelt's tariff truce proposal is doing service of another kind. It has forced Great Britain to acknowledge her real interest in the forthcoming conference. It has dispelled Prime Minister MacDonald's idealism and exposed in its place the rugged, hard-headed nationalism of the Tories who hold the actual power at London.

The United States will not now go into the world conference under delusions. America has been warned to be on guard against trading valuable assets for amiable assurances. Instead of being a gathering of delegates seeking to improve the condition of the world, the London conference is more likely to be a scramble for national advantage. In spite of the high phrases that were used in the conferences here, the trend of events abroad cautions the American people against expecting too much from the economic conference.

THE STATUTORY MAZE.

Every year the thousands of bills introduced in Congress are matched by tens of thousands proposed in the State legislatures. National enactments average around a thousand a year, and the State solons who have been in session this year have already added more than 7,000 laws to the statute books—and this is a bad year for the legislative grist mills. They are something like 1,200 behind the record of two years ago. Is it any wonder that times are hard and the people are confused as to what to do when so few new regulations have been provided? However, in a number of States legislatures are still in session, not to mention Congress.

For some reason the American Legislative Association, located in Chicago, keeps track of the number of bills presented in all the 48 State assemblies and has just issued a report on the subject. Whether it is to discourage further competition in the practice of law or not, there appears no other reason for broadcasting the appalling fact that even in this off year 62,000 bills have been presented for discussion in various State legislatures. Only twenty-five legislatures have completed their labors for this season, and their batting average is off 10 per cent.

The average legislature this year has passed only 260 bills, as compared with 291 in 1931. Evidently they are economizing on the use of paper, for it can't be lack of material, since more bills have been introduced than ever before. Legal panaceas are prolific in hard times. Pennsylvania, New York and California lead the list of States in the number of bills presented to their legislators for discussion. Harrisburg was deluged with no less than 4,450 bills, Albany's avalanche was only ten less, while Sacramento is struggling to make it an even 4,000 before the session ends. Vermont takes the prize for fewest bills offered this year, less than 400.

TAX EVASIONS.

Treasury officials are very much disappointed by the poor yield of revenue during recent months under both the new and old tax laws. Even though the higher rates were in effect during March and April, collections during these two months amounted to only $199,836,000, as compared with $215,182,000 for the corresponding period of last year. Officials have been comparing these returns with estimates based on the income statistics of the National Industrial Council and the National Board of Economic Research. The actual returns are considerably below what the Government should have received if these income figures are correct.

Attention was called to this situation last week by The Post. It is apparent that some taxpayers are not making honest returns, and a large number of others are evading their taxes under the pretext of being in financial difficulties. Every one recognizes that many fortunes have been wiped out and that some individuals owing taxes are now unable to pay them. Even the Government can not pay its debts. Yet there is a large group of people who are taking advantage of this period of hard times to escape their obligations to Uncle Sam.

Tax evasion is robbery of the Government. If dishonest individuals are allowed to cheat the Treasury, higher taxes must be levied upon honest taxpayers to make up the deficit. Failure of a tax collecting system usually signifies the disintegration of responsible Government. In the United States a large percentage of the people pay their taxes honesty, but if any considerable number are allowed to swindle the Treasury the effect upon the taxpayers as a whole is extremely demoralizing.

A drive against tax delinquencies and evasions is to be conducted by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Officials of that bureau are to be congratulated on this decision. In these difficult times the Government can not afford to allow a single taxpayer to escape his just obligations. A rigorous drive against crooks and delinquents would not only bring in a considerable revenue, but would improve the morale of all taxpayers.

As a first step in this drive the bureau ought to put its personnel on a higher basis of efficiency. Indications are that political appointees who are now responsible for tax collections will be replaced by other politicians who are not qualified for work demanding such a high degree of impartiality and executive ability. By all means the tax collecting agents of the Government should be placed under civil service regulations. Long periods of service and special adaptation to this work are essential to insure efficiency. It is absurd to expect a business-like administration of the tax laws if these positions are distributed as political plums.

A wise second step in the drive against tax evaders would be to assure the investigators and the attorneys, who are carrying on the fight against fraud and favoritism in the assessment of taxes and the acceptance of compromises, that their status in the bureau is permanent. This work can not be carried on by novices. While it is struggling against grave abuses of the tax laws the Government would be foolish indeed to turn over this work to a group of untrained jobhunters.

The McMath kidnapers plead not guilty, but add that they are ashamed of what they did. Perhaps Clarence Darrow could convince a moron jury that the boys are victims of a brutal social system which would imprison them for trying to raise a little cash by stealing a child.

Senator Capper offers a bill to penalize deceptive advertising, possibly to compel Uncle Sam to quit making false promises to pay dollars and bonds in gold.

The French cabinet decides that it's unfair to tempt it to pay the June debt installment by forgiving the December payment.

The world economic conference will be a huge success if Uncle Sam will make all the concessions.

How the dollar of our daddies does stretch!

INFLATION

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Controlled inflation may raise prices, revive industry, relieve the burden of fixed debt. Uncontrolled inflation might be carried to the point of repudiation of debt, confiscation of savings, complete economic disorganization. It is important, therefore, to ask whether inflation must inevitably get out of hand; whether it can, in fact, be kept under control.

History fully records the disastrous consequences of uncontrolled inflation. The American colonies financed the Revolution by printing paper money instead of taxing or borrowing. By 1780, in consequence, shoes were selling at $100 a pair. In 1790, the currency was funded at 1 cent on the dollar. Its depreciation led Washington to complain that "a wagon-load of money will scarcely buy a wagon-load of provisions." It gave birth to the expression, "not worth a continental," which is still used to describe utter worthlessness.

France, following her revolution, duplicated our experience. The assignates were multiplied between 1790 and 1795 until the price of shoes had jumped from 5 francs to 200 francs; flour from 2 francs to 225 francs. The price of soap was multiplied by 44; of sugar by 69; of wood by 125. Redemption ultimately came at the rate of 100 for 1. Civil War greenbacks in America fell by 1864 to 39 cents on the dollar, cut real wages by a third, added $500,000,000 to the cost of the war.

It remained for the World War to force the ultimate in currency depreciation. As the ruble fell, prices in Russia rose to 15,000,000 times their prewar level. The German reichsmark, once valued at four to the dollar, dropped to four trillion to the dollar; was finally converted on the basis of a billion to one.

Uncontrolled inflation wipes out all savings deposits; renders all insurance policies worthless; destroys all endowments; ruthlessly confiscates the savings of the people. Honest governments must set their faces like stone against it. It is not strange, therefore, that people should ask whether the adoption of a policy of controlled inflation will eventually lead us into reckless, headlong and uncontrolled inflation.

There is no economic pressure which can force the United States into an inflation which would get beyond control. America can go on to uncontrolled inflation only if it deliberately chooses to do so. We are confident that the present administration will make no such choice.

Bases Full—Give Us a Homer!

POST HASTE.

You can't say the President didn't warn you—we are to have inflation.

Just what the proportion hard-pressed debtors are to solvent Americans is not stated, but our guess is that the non-debtors could afford to take up a collection and save a lot of money by paying off those debts to avoid inflation.

Paradoxically, inflation means deflation of the dollar's purchasing power.

Inflation will help the man with a $1,000 note or mortgage and penalize him in the same proportion on his $2,000 income.

Cheer up, you might have Ambassador Davis' job of trying to carry a flag of truce through the London tariff entanglements.

Senator Frazier told the Socialist convention it was more representative of the people than the Senate. Couldn't he prevail on the Senate to release him?

Just plain national economy is quite a problem for Americans, who are still less fitted to determine European economic and political policies.

The theoretical accord of the Big Three was beautiful while they stuck together in Washington, even though the home fires were burning.

That subdued transatlantic heehaw came from Paris when somebody's proposal was received that France pay a whole half of her war debt.

Any generous American offer to forgive 50 per cent of the French debt will be matched by an equally polite Parisian denial of the other half.

The President makes it clear that the Government is going to handle the currency and manhandle the industrial minority if it doesn't play ball according to the new rules.

Japan has a yen for the Chinese Eastern Railway, but Russia is asking 800,000,000.

The British cabinet appears to have the tariff truce trussed.

LIFE'S DRAMA.

"Hello, life," I thought to say
As I got out of bed today.
"Hello, world, with all you hold,
Ever young and ever old;
Background for the drama played
Here by men by passions swayed,
Torn by doubts and hopes and fears,
Glorious setting for our years.

"Here beneath a lovely sky
Anxious men go hurrying by,
Seeking something out of strife
To enrich their days of life.
Here amid a blossomy scene
Some are selfish, some unclean,
But the most of men believe
There are triumphs to achieve.

"Trees and streams and fields remain
Backdrops for man's loss and gain.
All we are and all we do
Sun and moon in silence view.
Summer roses watch us play,
Watch us put our dead away.
Wheresoe'er mankind has gone
Is life's drama running on.

"Fascinated ort I stand
Watching toil of brain and hand,
Love and hatred, joy and grief,
Saint and sinner, sage and thief,
Frenzied mob and courage great
Battling with the odds of fate;
And, entranced, I wait to see
What the next great act will be."

More Inferior His Race More Arrogant He Is Made by a Little Authority.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN a recent magazine article concerning one of America's greatest financiers, now deceased, the author tells how the great one "roared" and "growled" at lesser folk who trembled in fear when he spoke.

In another article, printed the same week, Mrs. Buck described a Chinese general, formerly a poor and illiterate peasant, whose subordinates lived in fear of his frequent rages.

Is it a mere coincidence that these two men—one made great by money and the other by the sword—should have possessed such violent tempers? Is the ability to roar at followers an indication of greatness?

Observe small boys at play. One of them, physically overgrown or mentally retarded, is larger and stronger than his playfellows. And because of this advantage he is overbearing and rude. He finds excuses to hurt the smaller boys. He is a bully.

Wherever laboring men work in groups there is one whose superior size and strength make him immune to physical attack. He can whip any of the other men with ease and they know it. He knows it, also, and the knowledge gives him the manner of a chief. He roars. His tempers are awful to behold.

Now what is the matter with these people—these overgrown boys and giant workers? The matter with them is sore need of a thrashing. They need somebody—some long-suffering smaller person—to fall on them like a brick house and teach them the value of good manners.

And our great business men who roar and growl need the same thing. They have their values mixed.

I have watched some of them in operation and marveled at the wreckage of manhood wrought by a little money or a little authority. They were ordinary men who would have spoken meekly and remembered their manners if stripped of their artificial advantage and forced to compete with equals.

But too much contact with "yes-men" had gone to their heads. They barked and glowered and snapped. They were, in short, ill-mannered boors.

Is it manly to kick a cripple? Or curse a servant who dare not answer back? Or surrender to wrath and beat a puppy to death because it doesn't obey?

Power does strange things to men. It brings out the bully. But it doesn't have that effect on men who have put away childish things.

POLITICAL COMMENT

The Hoarding Law.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Although vast sums of gold and gold certificates have been turned in to the Federal Reserve Banks there remains in hoarding a total perhaps exceeding a half billion dollars. Much of this the holders are determined to retain, insisting the Government's assertion of power to compel its redemption in paper-money is unconstitutional. The question probably will be tested in the courts shortly.

Even a few years ago there would have been little question that the Government was exceeding its constitutional authority in demanding the return to banks of hoarded gold. Such a law would have been regarded as an invasion of the constitutional property rights of the individual. But our ideas of governmental power seem to be shifting rapidly.

Out at Last.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The Government finally is out of the wheat business. With the sale of 1,100,000 bushels in Chicago on Saturday, the Federal Farm Board and its subsidiary, the Grain Stabilization Corporation, cleared their bins and prepared for a final statement of the cost of three years of price-pegging. The initial estimate places the loss at around $165,000,000.

Embryonic Nudist.

Chicago News.

A shortage of barrels, due to hectic brewing, has deprived the almost naked taxpayer of what he'd counted upon as a last resort.

Mud for Slime.

Los Angeles Times.

A suggestion to send Huey Long to London as a return call for Bernard Shaw's visit to America has some good points.

The Old Deal in Europe.

Minneapolis Journal.

Statesmen of the powers may parley in Washington, their conclusions only to be surmised, but circumstantially encouraging hope of new world accord. But the politicians back in the statesmen's capitals keep right on doing business at the old stands.

While Prime Minister MacDonald was agreeing with President Roosevelt on matters of trade and possibly on tariff truces, his government in London was making new agreements with other governments, designed to give Great Britain commercial advantages. Such trade pacts have been signed or are in the making with Denmark, Norway, Argentina, Sweden and Germany.

In France, too, the politicians have not been idle during Edouard Herriot's Washington mission. They have imposed a 15 per cent surtax on American imports, effective whenever the dollar hits 20 francs.

Congress Should Quit Early.

Kansas City Times.

The public has been notably responsive to the work of Congress in the special session as to the vigorous policies of the administration. Both have received a degree of public support rarely demonstrated in the history of this country. But as the crisis eases off, as warm weather approaches and as attention comes to be centered more and more upon the international phase of reconstruction, public enthusiasm is certain to wane and Congress itself to become increasingly restive.

It is a wise decision of the President, therefore, to urge adjournment by the first of June. A considerable volume of legislation already has been disposed of, with final action in prospect on other vital matters within a few days.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dollar Should Not Fluctuate in Value—Doping Race Horse Not a Good Plan "in the Long Run."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to take up a little space in a few words on a question which just now has the average citizen guessing—the money question in reference to inflation. From the academic viewpoint it is the most prolific; from the practical viewpoint, the most difficult of questions.

I side with those who seem to be the most practical—the anti-inflationists. With outright fiat-money inflationists we are not here concerned. But even those whom you may choose to call conservative inflationists are far too reckless in fixing the limit beyond which patriotic confidence is not a safe basis for a medium of exchange. Men have not quite reached the idealistic level where faith in the substance of things promised can take the place of a present, well-defined value in fact.

The dollar, whether based on gold, gold and silver, or some other convenient material equivalent, should have a fixed value, approximately free from commodity fluctuations.

Here is where the inflationists are at fault. They fail to view money as a special entity. They do not seem to realize that by inflation the dollar is more or less demonetized.

In other words, without reference to the temporary needs of any particular situation and with a sane outlook for the future, the important thing is to preserve the monetary integrity of the dollar. It should stand fixed as a measure of value. To give it a commodity inflation to meet the fluctuations of business, is to leave no balance-wheel at all.

It looks to me something like doping a racehorse to increase his speed on a muddy track. Though it should happen to work like a sure panacea for a short time, the horse will fail "in the long run." CAUTIOUS.

International Monetary System Is Not Practical in This Generation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As I see it, the idea of an international money system has, right now, a hopelessly jig-saw look. The nations of the earth are as yet too suspicious in their dealings with each other. The difference in their forms of government, in their resources, in the intelligence of their people is too great to allow much easy-money business between them in time to do the present generation much good.

In the present state of the world, I don't think any arrangement which would suit our people would come anywhere near to fitting in with the economics of Russia and some other governments you may think of. Money reform in this country would be slowed up by such a hodge-podge combination.

In the way they may look at the question of international moneys, I guess the nations of Europe are more like each other than they are like the United States. They should first get together, roll up their sleeves, and dig for a secure sound-money foundation before inviting the United States to join them. I do not see why they couldn't do it in time to do some good if they would only stop spending so much for war materials.

The best thing for us to do is to find out how to get the most out of our great resources with a money system arranged to spread prosperity for the greatest good of the American people. And while we are on the job there is no reason why we couldn't give the Europeans some good advice and even a helping hand when they need it, if they deserve it.

Until the Old World nations get rid of the war jitters and lay their own foundations deep and strong, I don't see where it will do Uncle Sam much good to take a chance in the experiment of world-money regulation.

In other words, it seems to be a little like me and the pieman.

SIMPLE SIMON.

Quite a Difference Between Facism and American Plan of Giving Power to the President.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see by a Rome dispatch to The Post Sunday, May 7, that Italy's blackshirts "take it for granted that an era of Fascism is dawning upon the world."

Alberto Asquini, undersecretary of corporations, declared in the Italian Chamber of Deputies that a healthful sign for industrial improvement lies in what he called a recent noticeable spread of dictatorial tendencies. He referred to President Roosevelt's firm start in grappling with the American situation and Adolph Hitler's rise in Germany.

Naturally, in making cracks like that, the political ins of the Kingdom of Italy don't know that the Republic of the United States produces a different breed of citizens from themselves.

Our citizens allow some extra power to the President in the emergency because they have an idea they can trust him as the elected head of the Government. Getting down to brass tacks, there is some difference between a figurehead king held in place by a hardboiled dictator and the emergency agent of a free people.

Whether our citizens are right or wrong in allowing the President a free hand may be debated. My idea is that, without making too much of a fuss about it, they would just as well [illegible] nature take its course. An economic depression is like a bad cold, and with a few doses of cough medicine, [illegible] luck, about the best thing to do is to keep smiling while it [illegible] itself out.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT IS understood that the American Society of Composers invite full governmental investigation into their activities. This is said to have been the response to Newton D. Baker, counsel for the broadcasters, who is said to have offered in a letter to withhold action at this time if the composers would make certain concessions.

"We invite the fullest investigation by the Government," E. C. Mills, of the composers, was quoted as saying after having turned down Mr. Baker's proposition.

"We refuse to be intimidated by any threats of that kind from the broadcasters. For us to try to forestall governmental action would be like trying to call off the cop on the beat.

"Even if the action of the broadcasters were successful and we were declared to be a combination in restraint of trade, it would provide no solution. Broadcasters would then be under necessity of dealing with thousands of copyright owners."

Frank Moulan, known throughout the country as one of the best of the Gilbert and Sullivan actors, and equally popular over the radio, will be heard with Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit on Plantation Program to be broadcast over Station WRC, at 7 p. m.

Mr. Moulan's number on the program will be Lord Chancellor's Nightmare, "When You're Lying Awake," from "Iolanthe," and "Tit Willow," from "The Mikado," in which he has appeared from time to time for many years. Another feature of the program will be two selections from "The Arcadians," one of Miss Sanderson's early starring vehicles.

Jeannie Lang has a girl friend who is very proud of her ancestry. "She is of Scotch-Irish descent," says Jeannie, "and regards her Irish mother as her dearest relative and her Scotch father as the closest."

THERE will be a discussion of "The Milk Prices in Washington" under the auspices of The Washington Post tonight. George H. Barrows will be the speaker and will be heard over WOL at 7 o'clock.

The "Save the Scottsboro Boys" marchers parading past the White House yesterday provided a novelty. Instead of being headed by a brass band, the parade was led by a sound truck. It was an automobile equipped with a loudspeaker about 6 feet in diameter.

The voice of an announcer, who explained the object of the protest, could have been heard plainly within the White House offices as the parade passed.

In fact, if the wind were in the right direction the amplified voice of the speaker could probably be heard a couple of blocks.

THOMAS W. BRAHANY, "The Irish Philosopher," will again "pack 'em in" over WMAL tonight at 7:45 o'clock. A Washingtonian, Tommy could easily have made good on the professional stage. He can count upon us being in the front seat any night he broadcasts.

The WJSV Dramatic Guild, composed of the leading radio actors of Washington, will make its debut tonight at 10:15 o'clock (Eastern standard time), with a presentation of the first episode in a mystery drama. The group will be heard each Tuesday night thereafter.

Tommy McLaughlin, barytone, will be heard with Poetry-Reader David Ross (WJSV, 8:15 p. m.) . . . O. H. Caldwell, former radio commissioner, now full-fledged radio showman, promises a demonstration of the "electronic" violin by which the tones of an ordinary violin are amplified "so that a hundred artists seem to be playing in unison." (WMAL, 7:45 p. m.) . . . Boake Carter will be interviewed by Bob Taplinger (WJSV, 4 p. m.). Next week Bob will have Ted Lewis, who was afraid he wouldn't make good in radio because he couldn't broadcast his old hat.

"Women are carrying economy too far," says Allen Prescott. "Why, I know a lady who had only 26 candles on her forty-second birthday cake the other day."

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE, WALLACE, will give some new slants on "The Farm Bill" over WJSV at 12:15 p. m. It will be a broadcast of the Women's Democratic Club in Philadelphia.

"Some novelists write solely for their own pleasure," said a publisher on the airways. "Well, all I can say," observed Jack Benny, "some folks are easily pleased."

George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute, will speak during the "Threads of Happiness" program over WJSV at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Mr. Sloan will tell of the significance of National Cotton Week, which is to be observed from May 15 to 20.

Referring to the proposal to abolish the press section and other slashes at the radio commission "Broadcasting Magazine" has the following to say, in part:

"Dismissals face a number of tried and true specialized employes of the radio commission. The dismissals are being made in the magic name of economy. But is economy really the motive? Never lily white where politics is concerned, the commission is now playing politics with personnel, for no sooner will these men vacate their posts than certain good partisans are slated to get equivalent places on the commission staff.

"That these partisans have no specialized knowledge of radio and will replace men who have performed nonpolitical functions honestly and diligently, does not seem to matter."

ROUMANIAN Independence Day will be observed by a talk by Roumanian Minister Davila over Station WMAL at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Frank Luther, tenor, likes to recall when Wilfred Glenn, of the Revelers, was reciting "The Face on the Barroom Floor" into the mike, and Earl Oliver got a piece of chalk and drew a big picture on the studio rug behind Bill. When Bill came to the line: "And fell across the picture dead," Earl fell across his masterpiece in chalk, upsetting two music stands, Lucien Schmidt's cello and Frank Black's dignity.

In the final program of his series of symphonic "contrast concerts," tonight, over WRC, at 9:30 o'clock, Dr. Walter Damrosch will present representative works of Franz Schubert and Richard Wagner.

BEN BERNIE, the Old Maestro, and all the lads will broadcast from Cincinnati at 8 o'clock over WRC tonight.

A new Bernie arrangement of "Stormy Weather" from the Cotton Club Review will be featured along with a repeat of the number, "Listen to the German Band." Other numbers to be featured on the program include "I Got a Right to Sing the Blues," "Let's Put Out the Lights and Go to Sleep" and "Goofus."

Navy Band Will Repeat Woodin Program Music

In answer to a number of requests received by Lieut. Charles Benter, leader of the United States Navy Band, the music unit will repeat the program of Secretary of Treasury Woodin's compositions presented in April, at a concert at 8 p. m. tomorrow, at the Navy Yard.

Secretary Woodin will be present at the performance. One of the selections in the program is the new symphonic suite, "Covered Wagon Days," especially arranged for the Navy Band by George Drumm, of New York.

A New Yorker At Large . . .

By MARK BARRON.

New York.—Meeting pretty actresses off the stage and screen may appear to be a thrill, but it also proves a devastating destroyer of illusions.

One Broadway star who has the reputation of being the epitome of chic and youthful beauty is really a woman 51 years of age and it requires a great deal of grease paint, indeed, to cover up the many wrinkles that line her face.

Another famous actress, noted for her beauty and ability to wear clothes, proved quite a shock when I first interviewed her. A bit of soap and water wouldn't have hurt her neck, she needed a manicure and her clothes were drab and ill fitting.

Which reminds me of the story concerning one actress who has been a famous film star for many years. She still films beautifully, although her face is covered with wrinkles.

To blot out these wrinkles the cameraman sometimes takes the picture through a screen of gauze, thereby giving her face a hazy, dreamy appearance.

As he started to shoot a closeup of this star one day a cameraman was heard to remark: "Gauze won't help this grandmother any. I'd better film her through a horse blanket."

War On "Clip" Joints.

The police at last seem to be getting somewhere in their long war upon "clip" joints. These are those gloomy, obscure cabarets to which unsuspecting victims are usually lured by unscrupulous cab drivers.

Once in the place the victim soon discovers that his pocket has been picked and if he complains a couple of hoodlums beat him up and toss him out on the sidewalk.

The reason police find it difficult to break up such places is that the victim rarely will complain, fearing that the publicity will make him appear a fool in the eyes of his friends.

But the police have recently persuaded a few victims to complain and they're making progress in putting these "clip" joints out of business.

Grid Star "Clipped."

A typical instance happened recently to a well known football star of a New England university. Lured into one of these cabarets, he was beaten up and his money taken away from him.

The victim told his experience to a friend of his, the city editor of a New York newspaper. That night the editor walked around with his friend until they located the place. An immediate police raid was the result, the cabaret closed and the guilty parties sent to prison.

The moral of which is never to accept an invitation of a cab driver to take you to a "red hot place."

Hirschfield, the artist, has a beard like George Bernard Shaw's. But he shaved it off when he went to the island of Bali.

Know How to Treat Coma Victim? Read Advice of Dr. Evans.

The Meanderer

Announces School for Electric Cookery—Fresh, Homegrown Foods — English Ale, German Beer.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

A cooking school in a modern kitchen electrically equipped is to be held in a women's farm-to-home market, which many Meanderings readers have visited, on Thursday and Friday of this week. The model kitchen will remain installed on Saturday to allow Saturday market shoppers to inspect it.

Freshly gathered, all-green asparagus from farms in nearby Maryland will be for sale in the market mentioned in the above paragraph on Wednesdays and Saturdays. Other items for the market list available there will be choice spring chickens, fresh rhubarb, radishes, green onions, ice cream and chicken croquettes and codfish balls ready for cooking.

A wooden fork and a wooden spoon for salad making are being given away in a chain store this week with the purchase of a half pint of French dressing of well-known brand for 18 cents. A set of shakers for the kitchen, labeled for salt, pepper, sugar and flour is given free with every purchase of a spaghetti dinner package. In the package is enough macaroni with prepared sauce for serving three persons. The package costs 33 cents.

Sturdy lilac and spirea bushes for the home garden may be purchased in a market operated on upper Wisconsin avenue by women from Maryland farms. Many other shrubs and plants, including seedums for the rock garden, are for sale there, too, as well as a variety of cut flowers, on the Wednesday and Saturday market days.

English style ale, bottled in Boston, sells for $2.50 a dozen bottles in a grocery store, well known to many Washingtonians. "Munchener Hofbrau", or genuine German beer for the well-stocked beer cellar, is highly interesting to beer fanciers. Its label states that it was brewed and bottled in Munich, Bavaria.

Menus for four persons, planned to cost $5 to $6 a week, are presented to homemakers in weekly menu sheets offered in a chain store. A number of recipes interesting to the homemaker are given on the menu sheet, and include lemon pie with graham cracker crust, minced lamb in potato rings, strawberry mousse and rhubarb tapioca.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATMENT IN COMA.

TO find a man who hitherto has apparently been in good condition unconscious—in what physicians call a state of coma—causes great alarm and uneasiness. The sick man himself can not help with a history, and many of the sources of symptoms are closed. Diagnosis of the cause is very difficult and dangerous; treatment without diagnosis may be hazardous, and prophesying the outcome is risky.

Among the more frequent causes of suddenly developing coma in an adult are apoplexy, diabetes, uremia, epilepsy, hysteria, alcoholism, narcotism, other poisons, carbon monoxide and sunstroke. Occasionally a serious form of infection will be inaugurated by coma.

As a rule, in coma due to stroke, including stroke due to a ruptured blood vessel, hemorrhage, thrombus and embolus, there is evidence of one-sided paralysis. One leg, one arm or the muscles of one cheek or one side of the face can be observed to be thrown out of commission. Often one pupil is larger than the other. At first there is no fever.

The need of an early diagnosis is because of the danger that anxious friends will do too much. A person who has just had a stroke of apoplexy should be kept as quiet as possible. The head should be slightly elevated, but the neck should not be markedly bent. If the collar is tight it should be loosened. And beyond that whatever is done by way of first aid will probably do more harm than good.

Diabetic coma is unaccompanied by evidence of paralysis. There is a history of diabetes. The breath smells sweetish and the urine gives the test for sugar. A person with diabetic coma should have a full dose of insulin by injection and as promptly as possible. Since the dose must be full, some sugar must be given, or else it must be kept at hand for quick use.

Coma due to too much insulin may be accompanied by convulsions. There may be a history of diabetes and the taking of insulin. The urine is likely to be free of sugar. The remedy is some sugar given by injection of some kind, or by mouth when that is feasible.

Coma due to opiates is generally accompanied by very slow breathing and pin-point pupils: that due to alcoholism by an odor of alcohol on the breath and flushed, red face. A test of the urine shows alcohol present.

In the coma of hysteria there is generally a little tremor around the eyes and in some other face muscles. The diagnosis can often be made by examining the eyes. Treatment makes hysteria coma worse. Neglect cures it.

WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

BISCUIT STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE LAUDED BY FRANK A. VANDERLIP

By ANN BARRETT

WHEN it comes to a gold standard in eating, strawberry shortcake rates par, year in year out. This, according to Banker Frank A. Vanderlip—who told me recently that of all the delicacies he has eaten the world over, strawberry shortcake (made with a rich biscuit crust, mind you) heads the list.

Not that strawberry whipped cream cake is to be scorned, either. Or strawberry chiffon pie. Or the heavenly flavor of fresh strawberries in ice cream. Or cooked-in-the-sun strawberry preserves.

But biscuit shortcake—crisp, buttery, oozing luscious berries—that's one of America's gifts to the world. Not even good English cooks can make it right—as Constance Collier, English actress, assured me last time she was here.

How to Make Good Crust.

So, with this reputation to live up to, American cooks should watch their P's and Q's. And here's how to do it on the shortcake crust: Mix and sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar. Then cut in 4 tablespoons shortening, and lightly mix in only enough milk to hold mixture together (about 2-3 cup).

Then (for one large cake) pat this dough into a greased layer cake or pie tin (about 8 inches across). Or make the dough into 4 or 6 large, flat biscuits. Bake at 450 for about 12 minutes.

When shortcake is done, score crust around the edge (midway between top and bottom) with the point of a sharp knife. Put clean white cord in this incision, and cut cake (without making it soggy as knife does) by crossing cord and gently drawing it through cake.

Next, spread softened butter generously over cut surface, using about 4 tablespoons. Then sprinkle with 2 tablespoons powdered sugar. Finally, set cake in oven (fire out) to keep hot while preparing berries.

How to Prepare Berries.

Best wash the berries before hulling so as not to lose any juice. (Takes 1 quart for this size shortcake.) Reserve 10 or 12 best berries for top. Then chop the rest coarsely, and sweeten to taste with powdered sugar (takes about 1 cup). Cover bottom layer of shortcake with crushed berries, put on top crust, cover this with 1 cup cream (whipped first with 3 tablespoons powdered sugar) and garnish with whole berries. It'll be a big day at your house when you serve this!

Strawberry Chiffon Pie.

Another strawberry dessert that's big in eating news right now is strawberry chiffon pie. Make it in a 9-inch baked pastry shell as follows: First chop 1 quart washed, hulled berries, sweeten them with ¼ cup sugar and let stand several hours to draw out the juice. Then strain berries through cheesecloth as you would jelly. Take 2 tablespoons of this juice and soak in it 4 teaspoons gelatin. Then dissolve this by standing it over hot water. Next, add this gelatin to strawberry juice along with 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Let stand till cold and thickened. Next, put 6 egg whites and 2-3 cup sugar in top of double boiler and heat till warm. Remove from fire and beat stiff with rotary beater. Then fold this into cold fruit juice, turn mixture into baked shell, and spread top with 1 cup cream (whipped first). This makes very delicate eating—less hearty than strawberry shortcake.

Strawberry Ice Cream.

For an elegant strawberry ice cream (that ought to be in every good cook's bag of tricks) here's how: First scald 1½ cups rich milk. Add 1 teaspoon gelatin (first soaked in 1 tablespoon cold water). Stir till dissolved. Then mix ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt; stir this into milk, cover and cook 10 minutes over hot water. Next, beat 1 egg yolk, pour a few spoons of this mixture over it, return this to double boiler and cook 1 minute more. Strain, chill and beat this mixture till light.

Next, beat 1 egg white stiff. Whip ½ cup cream stiff. Fold these into first mixture and pour into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator or can of freezer. When mixture is half frozen, add 2 cups washed hulled berries (chopped or sieved and sweetened with ¼ cup powdered sugar). This recipe makes a scant quart.

Send for More Recipes.

This is only the beginning to the rhapsodies you can create with strawberries. For example: Strawberry-rhubarb gelatin (made a big hit at a New York hotel just the other week), strawberry mousse, strawberry whipped cream cake, more kinds of strawberry pie, and six recipes for putting up jam and preserves. Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

THE baby has no need for shoes until he begins to walk. Until then he is better off without them.

The booties and the little slippers which relatives and friends are so fond of presenting him are quite useless and something of a nuisance, since they are always getting lost when he kicks them off.

In warm weather and in an evenly heated room the baby's feet and legs need no special covering. When stockings are needed for warmth, these should be long enough to be pinned comfortably to the diaper. Cotton is a satisfactory material, since it does not shrink, although silk and wool are warmer and therefore sometimes advisable.

Above all, the infant's footwear—its stockings and shoes—should be roomy and comfortable.

The baby's stocking should be amply long and wide so that there will be no pinching and binding at the knee. The foot should be at least an inch longer than the baby's foot, so that there will be no danger of cramped toes. He should never wear a stocking after it has become tight.

The baby's first shoes should be soft and light in weight with a soft flexible sole, a broad, square toe and a straight inner line.

The shoes, like the stockings, should be at least an inch longer than the foot. Shoes that become short before they are worn out should be discarded.

Lace shoes are best, since they are most adjustable. If button shoes are worn, the buttons should be adjusted so as to make the shoe fit snugly without squeezing at any point.

Slippery-soled new shoes on smooth slippery floors are responsible for many an unnecessary fall, with resulting fears that retard the child's progress in learning to walk well. The new shoe soles should be roughened before they are put on, as a measure of safety for the child's protection.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

HAVE you heard how the famous Baron de Rothschild has opened a leather atelier—for the purpose of giving employment to leather workers? The Paris couture is delighted—and in consequence buys the smart and ingenuous accessories that are turned out of this shop. Figure for yourself—excellent and experienced workmanship coupled with the baron's famous taste, and you can picture the accessories that result.

Heim shows one of their cases—a pigskin affair designed for the week-end, which is hardly bigger than a capacious handbag—but holds everything you could possibly need or even just want, for the week-end. Even cigarettes—the baron seems to think that a modern lady would need powder, cream, makeup, lotions for the hands and skin, windburn and sunburn. And cigarettes.

And belts! You think you know what a belt is until you see what imagination has done in belts. Belts that are and aren't belts, but all the last word in simplicity and chic and effect. A belt that actually holds anything up or down is, of course, a relic of the past—today's belt has no such reason for existence.

You may think you know how to fringe—until you try to fringe. So why not find out how it is exactly done and then you will always know? There are different kinds of fringe, too—or fringing. This week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to do them. And then just to be nicer than that, I tell you how to make some simply adorable gadjets that are made with thread and rings or hoops—I say gadjets because clever French women make jewelry out of these rings, trimming, borders and all sorts of things. The plot is to know what to do with the rings and the thread. A stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post will bring all the information to you. You will be pleased.

I think that gloves are a sure sign of the times. When gloves are content to be practical and simple, we have "severe" times. When they get fussy and frilled, and lose thereby, we have "reaction" times. And when they get simply gorlicious—we have today.

In Paris one sees gloves of velvet, notably red velvet contrasting with the costume. And we have gloves matching the shoes and costumes in color—dark green, for instance. A lovely lady wore dusty amethyst colored gloves with a brown coat. And at the Paris races one sees perforated suede gloves, velvet gloves and fancy mesh ones.

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

DROPPING A SINGLETON KING.

MY editorial associate, Mr. Walter Malowan, has a reputation among Bridge players in New York for being able to determine whether or not a King is a singleton. According to popular records, he has dropped more singleton Kings than any other Bridge player in the world. Perhaps he has been giving lessons, for recently another close associate of mine, playing in a Duplicate match where men were pitted against women, took a leaf from Mr. Malowan's book and dropped a singleton King of trumps, which permitted him to make the game after an earlier error in the play by his lady opponent, which was capped by his failure to take advantage of it. The player who turned defeat into victory was Mr. William J. Huske. The hand was:

West, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A K 10 9 8 ♡ K ◇ 8 5 3 ♣ K Q 7 4
Mr. Huske ♠ 6 5 ♡ A Q 10 7 5 ◇ A Q 6 ♣ A J 8	N W E S	♠ Q 7 3 2 ♡ J 9 8 6 ◇ K J 10 ♣ 10 6
	♠ J 4 ♡ 4 3 2 ◇ 9 7 4 2 ♣ 9 5 3 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♡	1♠	2♡	Pass
4♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

The Opening lead was the spade King, upon which South started a rather unconventional echo with the Knave, in view of the fact that North had bid spades and quite probably held five of them. When this trick held, the lady did not shift to another suit nor lead the commanding spade, but instead returned spade 8. Mr. Huske studied the situation, and as the Queen of spades was entirely out of his reach, he decided to play a low spade from Dummy and trust that South would ruff and perhaps make the capture of the King of trumps more easy. Much to his surprise, however, South played the 4, and West perforce had to follow suit with the 6, the 8 holding the trick.

Clearly, the Declarer was in a serious situation. He must lose a club trick, come what may. Apparently the fulfillment of the contract depended upon a successful finesse in trumps. North did not further test the spade suit, but now shifted to clubs, with the apparent intention of establishing a trick in that suit. This was won by West, who then led the Queen of diamonds, overtaking with the King in Dummy to lead the Knave of trumps, seeking to tempt a cover. South played low and West paused to reconsider the situation. North had won 2 tricks and had established a third. A club trick must still be lost, as North, no doubt, held the club Queen. Why had she been at such trouble to create a finessing situation for West, unless, by her plays, she could defeat the contract if West erred in his play, but could not do so unless he did?

This line of reasoning seemed to indicate that there was something wrong with the hand—namely, that North held the singleton King. It might violate the Law of Symmetry for one hand alone to have a singleton, but, after all, even the Law of Symmetry is not immutable, and therefore West, fearing feminine wiles and having already lost a trick by that means, decided to play the Ace. The King dropped, and his troubles were over.

It is, perhaps, interesting to note that more direct methods present an even more difficult problem than the manner in which the hand was played. If North cashes 2 spade tricks and establishes a club, West is still faced with the question of the heart finesses, as the one discard on the Queen of spades, no matter when taken, can not take care of the two clubs in the West hand. The play, in that case, rests on the heart finesse, which may or may not be taken, depending perhaps on whether the dinner had been agreeable or the hunch of the moment.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

This hand was played by four of the world's ranking experts. What is the correct bidding and final contract?

East, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A Q 8 ♡ 6 4 3 2 ◇ 10 8 2 ♣ 10 8 3
♠ K 9 7 5 4 2 ♡ 5 ◇ K 9 6 4 ♣ 4 2	N W E S	♠ 10 6 3 ♡ A J 10 9 ◇ A Q 5 3 ♣ A 6
	♠ J ♡ K Q 8 7 ◇ J 7 ♣ K Q J 9 7 5

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"TAPRUS."

IF May 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:50 a. m. to 9:10 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:25 p. m. The danger periods are from 2:35 p. m. to 3:50 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 11:55 p. m.

You should find it possible on this day to rise above your difficulties, and for the time at least you will be able to view your problems in a detached way. If you have artistic and creative leanings, it is not all unlikely that you will feel inspired to produce something of an unusual nature; the results should prove gratifying.

The child born on this May 9 will probably have a sharp wit and a keen eye. He will miss nothing that goes on around him, and his reactions to people and places will be interesting to watch. He should be encouraged to develop any talents which he may possess and he should not be allowed too much freedom during his school days.

Born on May 9, you are a very matter-of-fact person; you are not easily surprised or shocked. You often feel ill at east and embarrassed when you are offered something which you feel you have not earned. You do not like to receive gifts; it is more your nature to give than to receive. You have a knack for handling trying situations and you seem always to know the right thing to say or do to put all people at ease.

Stocks Decline as Dollars Advance in Marts Abroad

Loss of 1.1 Points Recorded on Sales Volume of 3,212,830 Shares.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Confusion in foreign exchanges left its stamp on other financial markets today.

A rally by the dollar, after early heaviness, sent stocks and several commodities down in the late trading, thus repeating last Saturday's shift of trend.

Markets presumably noted, also, the Paris cabinet's decision against paying the defaulted debt interest unless a moratorium on the June 15 payment was granted.

President Roosevelt's radio message to the country Sunday night left a favorable impression, judging from Wall street comment today. His references to inflation, it was held in some quarters, indicated that the administration planned to move cautiously. Proposed changes in the anti-trust laws, it was felt, should work to the advantage of several industries.

Stocks started well and did not stop until, in quiet trading, they had accumulated many extreme gains of 1 to around 4 points. Toward the close, as dollars rallied, this improvement evaporated, and a number of issues lost a point or more net. Sales totaled 3,212,830 shares.

Motors stock ran up a point, then yielded its rise, closing with a small loss. Du Pont, up nearly 4 at the best, held half a point of that gain. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, American Can, American Telephone, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania and Chesapeake & Ohio sagged fractions to a point net after early strength. Union Pacific, with a dividend meeting scheduled for Thursday, was down 2½, and Allied Chemical lost 2¾.

Trade news continued to create a favorable impression. One steel review forecast a rise to over 40 per cent in the operating ratio, which is now a few points above 30 per cent; a profitable basis, it appears, is not so far away, and attainment of such a level before the usual summer letdown is experienced would be welcome.

STEADY CURB PRICES YIELD UNDER SALES

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The curb market closed irregularly lower today under the impact of substantial offerings in the final hour. After a steady opening, prices worked slightly higher for a time, but lack of enthusiasm was indicated in the diminished volume.

Mining shares held up somewhat better than other groups. Lake Shore Mining halved a point gain toward the close. Teck Hughes was up a trifle. The unsettlement in crude oil prices was reflected in a drop of 1½ points in the price of Humble Oil while Standard Oil of Kentucky lost a major fraction.

Among specialties off around a point were Aluminum Co., General Aviation, Sherwin Williams and A. O. Smith. Pan-American Airways lost 3½ points while among investment trust shares Atlas Utilities sagged a half point.

The turnover was 318,000 shares, less than half of the volume recorded on the previous full day session.

VISIBLE SUPPLY OF GRAIN.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The visible supply of American grain shows the following changes in bushels: Wheat decreased 2,796,000; corn increased 322,000; oats decreased 66,000; rye decreased 67,000; barley increased 540,000.

Dollars Steady in London After Roosevelt's Speech

London, May 8 (A.P.).—While exchange market traders watched the antics of the dollar for possible clews to American inflation intentions, the United States monetary unit today steadied as a result of President Roosevelt's speech to the American people.

From Saturday's low level of $4.06 to the pound, the dollar fluctuated narrowly between $3.98½ and $3.99½ and closed at $3.99⅛.

Mr. Roosevelt's address appeared to have only a slight effect on the volume of the dollar dealings on the London exchange, but it was noted that selling from the continent appeared to be lighter today.

Pending definite indications as to what the Washington administration intends to do with the dollar—how the United States Government plans to depreciate it—there were many comments among traders that other currencies were being adversely affected and subjected to speculation.

Legitimate trade transactions suffered because of this uncertainty, some dealers charged.

Improvement in today's quotations from Saturday's level was attributed to a movement among bears who acted in the face of a lack of enthusiasm.

Paris, May 8 (A.P.).—Lack of sensationalism in President Roosevelt's inflation announcement and the strength of dollars in New York Saturday were given as reasons today for the steadying of the American dollar on the bourse.

The dollar's close at 21.54 francs was up 34 centimes from the previous close, after being quoted around 21.40 francs in prebourse trading.

Brokers said the British pound, which advanced to 85.80 francs today, was not following the dollar, but was seeking a stable relationship between the franc and the pound.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Textile issues, foreign bonds and tin shares were active and firm features on the stock exchange today. Otherwise business was restricted owing to American uncertainties and commencement of the new account. Transatlantic issues eased in the early trading but hardened later. Gilt-edged securities were neglected while gold mining shares suffered on profit taking. The closing was steady.

Paris—With the exception of electric issues, oil shares and gold stocks which continued to improve, quotations on the bourse lagged in sympathy with Wall street. The market closed irregular.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was dull, the market closing weaker.

BOND MARKET SAGS AS PARIS LOANS SINK

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—A sharp slump in French government obligations and reactionary tendencies of secondary corporation liens unsettled the bond market today and prices generally closed irregularly lower.

The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds declined two-tenths of a point, the first time it has been off since April 18. Trading volume dwindled on the downturn, sales totaling only $13,080,000, par value, in comparison with $19,091,000 last Friday.

Liquidation of French issues apparently reflected uncertainties regarding the republic's maintenance of the gold standard. French 7½s were heavily traded at a loss of 10 points while the 7s dropped 7¾. Bonds of Lyons, Marseilles and Bordeaux were off 1 to 2 points. Other foreign losers, seemingly affected by gold fears, included Copenhagen 4½s, off 5; Belgian 7s, off 2¾; Soissons City 6s, off 3½ and Swiss government 5½s, off 3¼. Italian government 7s also lost 3; Rome City 6½s were off 3; Milan City 6½s, off 3½; Rotterdam 6s, off 2; Dutch East Indies 5½s and 6s, off 1½ to 3½, and Panama Republic 5½s, off 5. Some of the Germans and Japanese rallied.

While high grade domestic loans were steady to firm, losers of 1 to around 3 points included some issues of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, American & Foreign Power and Central Pacific.

Missouri Pacific Action In Bankruptcy Attacked

St. Louis, May 8 (A.P.).—A suit by about 1,100 shippers holding claims against the Missouri Pacific Railroad, asking for dismissal of the road's recent voluntary bankruptcy suit, was filed today before Federal Judge C. B. Faris and immediately denied by him.

Judge Faris held there was no question but that the railroad had the right to take advantage of the new bankruptcy law. The opposing shippers alleged the road was not entitled to the benefits of the law because proceedings under a former receivership several years ago had not been completed.

Hop Prices Firm.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The market for hops continued very firm during the past week, prices advancing 15 cents a pound. Offerings were light, with stocks rapidly diminishing. Pacific coast prime to choice, which sold last week at 44 to 45 cents a pound, was quoted today at 63 to 65 cents.

EARLY WHEAT GAINS DISAPPEAR IN SALES

Corn Leads in Advances, but Declines Later; Oats Up.

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—Corn became the grain market leader today, and all deliveries ran up to above the highest previous quotations this season.

Last minute rushes to grab profits, however, led to a sudden reaction that tumbled corn prices back, and virtually rubbed out the day's gains. Critical agricultural conditions arising from prolonged delays to 1933 corn planting were largely responsible for corn market strength. Wheat was weakened as a result of curtailment of speculative buying and because of uncertainty as to how the various provisions of the new farm bill would be administered.

Corn closed irregular, at ⅜ decline to ¼ advance compared with Saturday's finish, wheat ⅝ to 1 cent down; oats, ⅛ off to ⅛ up, and provisions showing a rise of 22 to 40 cents.

Condition of Corn.

Corn crop specialists said that owing to abnormally wet weather it was doubtful whether the 1933 intended acreage, which showed a material decrease from last year, could now be planted. Some of the best corn-producing sections of Illinois reported today that no corn had yet been planted, and that not much more than half the land had been prepared. In addition to preceding delays, the rainfall during the last week has been far above average in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, the south half of Iowa, the western half of Kansas and all of Nebraska.

Flooded conditions were reported at many points, particularly in the Ohio Valley. Plowing and planting throughout the greater part of the corn belt was described as now seriously late, and changes pointing to danger that when the corn tasseling period arrives the time will be simultaneous with disastrous heat. It was added that the same conditions which jeopardize the corn crop have effectively reduced prospects for oats.

Wheat traders showed a notable disposition to be cautious and to await legislative developments at Washington. President Roosevelt's address telling of his purposes regarding inflation failed to stimulate any important new speculative buying of wheat.

Provisions reflected upturns of hog values. Lard rose to a new high price record for the season.

COTTON PRICES CUT AFTER EARLY RALLY

July Sells at 8.42 With General Market Down 17 to 19 Points.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Rallies from an opening decline in cotton today were followed by a sharp dip under renewed realizing or liquidation promoted by the failure of the wheat and stock markets to hold early advances.

July contracts, after selling off to 8.47 at the start, rallied to 8.64, or 5 points net higher, but broke to 8.42 in the late trading, and closed at that figure, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 17 to 19 points.

The opening was 6 to 17 points lower, with active months showing net losses of 12 to 19 points during the first few minutes under realizing or liquidation by recent buyers, who appeared to be influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables, and the extent of recent advances.

Offerings were absorbed by trade and commission house buying at the decline to 8.65 for October and 8.80 for December, and the market firmed. October sold up to 8.87 and December to 9.03 or within a few points of the highs of Saturday, but the demand then tapered off and the market broke during the later trading. Closing quotations were at the lowest for the day.

Cars, Power, Steel In Rising Tendency

Loadings of Freight Are Up to 54.4 on Index; Ingots, 27.9.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Statistics appearing during the past week indicated a rising business tendency, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production and steel ingot output.

These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

Activity in Cotton Laid to Farm Bill

Buyers Inspired by Rise in Stocks and Other Commodities.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—The increased activity and strength of the cotton market here during the last week has been attributed to a further broadening of general interest based chiefly upon the progress of the farm relief bill and its inflationary features. Advances in securities and other commodity markets have contributed to the confidence of buyers while the demand for cotton probably found some encouragement in talk of unfavorable prospects for the new crop start, reports of continued firmness in the cotton goods market, and a disposition to somewhat increase estimate of end-season consumption in this country as a result of increasing Southern mill activity.

Firmness in Liverpool and further depreciation in the dollar as measured by sterling exchange rates also have been contributing factors on the advance which carried the price of July contracts here up to approximately the 8½ level or about 811 per bale above the low price touched on the reaction of late last March.

Reports continue to indicate intentions to increase acreage in the South. Two private end-April crop reports were issued, one of them placing the expected increase at 7.7 and the other at 8 per cent, and there have been reiterated increased activity in fertilizers.

By NELSON B. BELL

Keyed high by the opportunity to present for the first time on a Washington stage a comedy of such superior fiber that it bids fair to run well into the summer on Broadway, where for weeks it has been one of the current hits, and inspired to even greater effort, no doubt, by the hilarious enthusiasm of the first capacity house of their present season, the National Theater Players last night scored one of the outstanding hits of their eight years on E street.

Here is brisk, breezy and buoyant entertainment, written and played with snap and sparkle such as is provided all too seldom in any theatrical season; a play that is clever, capricious and gay—just what the doctor ordered for this, or any other, time of the year. It can not be too highly recommended to playgoers in quest of sheer and untrammeled amusement and an evening packed tight with laughter.

"Goodbye Again" is fashioned of explosive materials. A vagrant lecturer upon literary topics before women's clubs reaches Cleveland, accompanied by his alert and efficient secretary, and there encounters an old and forgotten love of his college days in whose breast the spark he kindled has never died, although for six years she has been married to a placid dolt who has contrived to keep her abundantly housed, clothed and fed.

There is no escape from this woman for Kenneth Bixby. In fact, he is not at all sure that he wishes there to be any—much to his secretary's surprise and discomfiture. Just as the old affair gets up a fair head of steam again, however, in pop Mrs. Harvey Wilson's sister and her addle-pated fiance, Mrs. Harvey Wilson's complacent husband, who is actuated solely by a desire to see this god in the form of a man who has been held up to him for six years as a paragon of all the virtues and a model of what a husband should be, and divers and sundry others who feel the urge to save Mrs. Harvey Wilson from herself, as well as from her former lover.

How THAT all comes out is worth canceling all the bridge dates for and traveling miles to see.

The National Players get wholly into the spirit of this sprightly farce and play it with a zest that has not characterized either of their season's earlier offerings. Donald Woods is Bixby, the barnstorming haranguer, upon whom the greatest burden of the three acts falls, and Leona Powers is his secretary, Anne Rogers. They perform their appointed tasks with an incisive wit and an urban savoir faire that lend their parts the pep, the pungency and the punch they require. Nice work, very.

Kathryn Givney, as the emotional and gushing Mrs. Wilson (nee Clochessy) and Romaine Callander, her husband, who is quite willing to let her go, but even more eager to investigate this Mr. Bixby for himself and find out what makes him tick, score emphatically, as do Ona Munson and Freddie Sherman, as the younger crusaders who take it upon themselves to keep big sister on the straight and narrow—although Mr. Sherman last evening permitted the second act to slip out of his hands momentarily to everybody's slight chagrin.

Forrest Orr has a brief comedy scene in the third act and Mrs. Hibbard flits in and out, now and again, as a chambermaid whose duties are seriously complicated by the idiosyncrasies of the eccentric Mr. Bixby. His final "suicide" scene is a gorgeous bit of clowning.

Charles Squires' one setting of a large double room in the Statler Hotel in Cleveland is another model of completeness and good taste.

If there is to be any bill this season deserving of being held over for a second week, this would seem to be it. No judicious amusement seeker will miss it.

GAYETY

"GIRLS DE LUXE." Jimmy Lake presents a burlesque entertainment in two acts, featuring Gloria Lee and Darlin' Lucky, with Charles LaVine, "Bimbo" Davis, Connie Fanslau, Joy St. Clair, Nora Murray, Bob Sandberg, Lee Hickman, Joe Yule and Reggie White. Reviewed by George H. Barrows.

Despite the dazzling specialty numbers of Gloria Lee, a platinum-blonde Californian, and the equally laudable efforts of Darlin' Lucky—toe dancer par excellence—the unquestioned success of "Girls De Luxe," this week's bill at the Gayety, is chiefly due to the diversified abilities of Charley LaVine. In a solo number as "The Gay Caballero From Rio Janeiro," again, teamed with Joe Yule, as a coy maiden, and finally in the person of an aged Chinaman, LaVine proved to be not merely a comedian but a character actor with talents worthy of any stage.

"Bimbo" Davis, Lee Hickman and Joe Yule earned liberal applause with better-than-ordinary gags, fed by the always reliable Bob Sandberg, while Connie Fanslau, Reggie (Tassels) White and Joy St. Clair worthily uphold burlesque's standards of feminine charm.

Although many new faces appear in the chorus, it is a pleasure again to find Nora Murray, with her charming voice and manner, vocally interpreting several new and original spectacular numbers. Bobby Whalen remains the principal male vocalist.

"Girls De Luxe" is emphatically one of the finest of the season's presentations at the Ninth Street Tabernacle of Burlesque.

GLEN ECHO PARK

Glen Echo Park got off to a rousing start over the week-end for its 1933 season.

Starting at noon Saturday and continuing up to the early hours of last evening, visitors streamed through the gates to acclaim "Happy Days" that are indeed here again.

Widespread approval greeted the new $50,000 ballroom, done in the Spanish motif, where MacWilliams was on hand with his fine band to win greater laurels than ever.

Kids and grown-ups sampled everything on the bill of fare and found it good. The new Coaster Dip, with its snappy lighting effects and added thrills, the Old Mill with its mechanically operated scenic display, the old reliable Airplane Swings and Carrousels packed them in. The Dodgem Ride, too, enjoying the benefit of a new stucco front and new lighting effects, was one of the stars on the first three days' business. No lack of enthusiasm was in evidence for the favorites, such as Midway, shooting galleries and others that Washingtonians love so well.

Picnic parties are losing no time to acquaint themselves with the improvements made for their benefit, despite unfavorable weather conditions, judging from the attendance records. Street car service along the Potomac was without a flaw, despite the heavy demands made upon it, and this year, as usual, found numerous autos parked in the free space provided for that purpose.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

HAVING no longer ago than yesterday referred here to the virtual disappearance of "the road" as it was constituted in what, through tender sentiment, we still refer to as the "good old days," what should come along to refute our every implication—and Mr. Jessel's—but an announcement that "The Green Pastures," Marc Connelly's sensationally successful fable, will reach its 1300th performance in Easton, Pa., on next Saturday night, May 13, and will that same evening conclude a road tour of 34 weeks.

If there is no road, where did those 34 weeks come from?

"The Green Pastures"—you may care to refresh your memory—had its first performance in the Mansfield Theater, New York, on February 26, 1930, and has played almost continuously since that time. The tour that is now coming to a close was inaugurated at the Colonial Theater in Boston on September 5, 1932, where a run of eight weeks was registered.

Now it begins to come out! Eight weeks in Boston; 2 weeks in Washington—there are 10 of your 34 weeks, right there. Maybe there IS a "road" for plays that can pile up runs like that!

Comes a long and friendly letter from Theodore Mitchell—half of the former partnership of Mitchell and McCarthy that presented David Wark Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" as the first of the $2 road-show pictures, 'way back yonder—on the letterhead of the Lambs, 130 West Forty-fourth street, New York, which, after a few kind sentiments concerning our review of the recent "Lambs' Gambol" at the National, has this, among other things, to say:

"Even though we did not net anything for our Charity Fund by the trip, the boys said it was worth all the work to know that the effort was understood and relished. There is a feeling that it will stir them to do other things.

"When you come to analyze our show, you find it is just good, old-fashioned theater, exceptionally well done, with a touch of novelty here and there to give it added color.

"That audience certainly did respond to it. Maybe what they want in the theater is more good old 'theater,' like the Lambs unfolded."

Come to think of it, that might be the answer!

Weather conditions to the contrary notwithstanding, summer is definitely on the way.

This is made doubly certain—since the receipt of Manager Leonard B. Schloss' cardboard courtesies for the season at Glen Echo Park—by announcement from the Wilson Line that on Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock, the S. S. City of Washington will pull away from her slip at the Seventh Street Wharves for her inaugural run of the season to Mount Vernon.

Moonlight trips will begin Thursday night at 8:30. The feature of these moonlight (with luck) cruises this year will be Lou Berman and his band. Those who have heard this versatile unit are emphatic in their prophecy that it will be the hit band of the summer in these parts.

And thank you too much, Mr. Wilson, for the inclosures, which we will use in strict conformity with the law as specified on the reverse.

Having been duly celebrated for the achievement of various other kinds of records, it might be mentioned now that during the eight previous seasons of their existence the National Theater Players not only have furnished Washington a diversified summertime entertainment, but also have enriched the coffers of approximately 700 charitable organizations by cooperating with them in the presentation of benefit performances on the Monday and Tuesday nights of their plays.

By this means many of the beneficiaries of this arrangement have materially augmented their treasuries without incurring the slightest risk. It is the understanding of this department that the open season for benefit bookings has now arrived and that Panjandrum Cochran is standing with pen poised in hand, ready to execute the dotted line business.

So yesterday, seeing the plug that bears his name entered again in the third race at Pimlico, and quoted at 12 to 1 in the morning line, George Jessel, appearing in person with Norma Talmadge at Loew's Fox this week, dashed out between shows with all of his makeup on to place a small wager on the line, from a sense of duty and much against his better judgment.

Deeming his enthusiasm—based, if the truth must be known, on nothing more substantial than a forlorn hope—ample grounds for the playing of a hunch, numerous other otherwise innocent bystanders likewise pasted a few smackers on the nose of this jumping jinx. So what happened?

So George Jessel, the horse, romped home at $34.40 for the usual mutuel investment, and George Jessel, the actor, romped back to the theater with his pockets full of easy dough.

When George told Norma about his blind luck, of course the first thing she wanted to know was how much the nag had paid.

"Only $34.40," remarked George casually, as if it was something that happened every day.

And what do you think she said?

"Oh, Jesselong shot!"

"AFTER THE BALL." Fox release of a Gaumont picturization of a story by H. M. Harwood, costarring Esther Ralston and Basil Rathbone. Directed by Milton Rosmer. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Hilarity and thinly veiled burlesque dominate this newest of the English-made pictures, and if there be any suggestion in the title that there might be reminiscences of an age gone by, just check the idea at the door.

In fact, "After the Ball" is quite modern, featuring an international naval armaments limitations conference in Geneva, with the envoy of a land-locked country holding out for his country's quota of two battleships and one cruiser!

Important as is this conference, and the clever stairs of it that is worked into the narrative, it is really the tribulations of the neglected wife of the British envoy that furnish the excuse for the bal masque of the title. It seems that due to the absence of a special courier the conference and treaty signing are held up. But the courier arrives in time to take in the grand function, at which he unknowingly takes up with the wife of his superior. But she is too clever to allow the debonair courier to involve her in anything approaching a scandal. There are, nevertheless, plenty of chances for farcical misunderstandings.

Into this potpourri of international politics descends Basil Rathbone, the courier, with a suavity and charm that makes Esther Ralston's spree with her maid quite convincing. Clifford Heatherley is the envoy of the oceanless country desiring to become a naval "power." Quite the other extreme, and typical of the staid, deliberate, thorough Englishman, is George Curzon.

The music, which is woven into the picture's fabric, is catchy and admirably suited to the action, and comes from the pen of Otto Stransky, with lyrics by Clifford Grey.

In the supporting bill Marty Collins, Billy Bevan and Elinore Hunt are seen in "Techno-Crazy," a comedy that is as excruciating as the compound title indicates. Leo Donnelly's "Broadway Gossip" and a release of the Paramount News complete the program.

NATS WIN IN 12TH ON BOKEN'S HOME RUN, 10-8

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

St. Louis, Mo., May 8.

IT was between games in the double-header at Detroit. The Nats were passing the Tigers' dugout on their way to the dressing room. "When are they sending you back to Chattanooga?" a Detroit player yelled at Dave Harris, the Nats' pinch-hitter de luxe, who had ruined the no-hit game of Tom Bridges with two out in the ninth last year, and who had doubled against Bridges in the pinch earlier in the afternoon.

"I'm not going back," Harris shouted over his shoulder. "Not as long as they keep Bridges in this league, anyway."

The home folks from Collinsville were not long in seeing Bob Boken in action today. He threw out Garms on the first batted ball of the day, and he drove in the Nats' first run with a stinging grounder to Melillo.

The Browns were hitting for extra bases or nothing for five innings. Their clouts, in order, were a triple, a double, a triple, a double, a double, a safe bunt, a home run and a triple.

Washington's relief pitching this season has been a relief to nobody but the opposition. Crowder gave the Browns three runs today and McAfee gave them two in relief roles.

But the Browns weren't hitting McAfee's slow stuff with the same abandon that they clouted the speed of Thomas and Crowder. He struck out three on slow balls and ended the game by fanning Garms on a pitch that defied gravity.

Washington won the first round in the West-Schulte exchange today. The former St. Louis outfielder, now with the Nats, slammed out four singles to center field in six appearances while West, who has supplanted Schulte in the affections of the fans here, didn't get a hit until the ninth. He had two singles for the day.

Ossie Bluege pulled an excusable boner when it semeed that the Nats were going to win out in the eleventh. Bluege opened with a walk and Goslin slammed one high and handsome in the direction of the right field as if it was going to clear the roof and Bluege was off around the bases, but the stiff wind caught the ball and it dropped into the glove of Campbell, who doubled Bluege off first.

It is still a treat to see Sammy West gallop backward over the wide open spaces. He robbed his old pal, Heinie Manush, of a triple in the eleventh.

Lindo Storti, the Browns' third baseman, hit only one ball out of the infield all day. It was the ball that skidded past Joe Kuhel for the triple that tied the score in the ninth with two out.

The Collinsville girls' drum and bugle corps quickly recognized Joe

Chicago Tops Entry List For Open

Has 204 for Trials; With U. S. Total Now at 913.

District Number Off From 66 in 1932 to 38 This Year.

NEW YORK, May 8 (A.P.).—A big decrease in entries from the East for the United States open golf championship, partly offset by gains in the West, was revealed today by the official list of 913 entrants, classified according to the 21 sections where qualifying trials will be held May 15, preparatory to the 72-hole finals at Chicago June 8-10.

Chicago tops the list with a banner entry of 204 players, 70 more than last year, but New York's representation dropped from 203 to 109. The tournament was held last year on Long Island.

99 Under Total of Last Year.

The total, 99 under last year's entry of 1,012, includes 33 players exempt from qualifying because of their good work last year in the open. The remaining 880 will battle for 117 qualifying positions, to complete a field of 150 in the finals.

In the principal Eastern sections, Boston's entry list dropped from 68 to 42; Philadelphia's, 71 to 55, and Washington's, 66 to 38. On the other hand, besides Chicago's big gain as this year's host, the St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver and San Francisco districts also showed increases. Detroit and Cleveland were nearly on a par with their 1932 entry.

The 33 exempt players, headed by Gene Sarazen, the defending title-holder, are those who finished among the first 30 and ties at Fresh Meadow last June.

Jurado Fails to Enter.

Only Jose Jurado, the little Argentine pro, among the leaders, failed to enter for this year's play. The exempt players are Sarazen, Bobby Cruickshank, Phil Perkins, Leo Diegel, Wiffy Cox, Bill Burke, Harry Cooper, Olin Dutra, Walter Hagen, Clarence Clark, Vincent Eldred, Paul Runyan, Henry Ciuci, Ed Dudley, Johnny Goodman, Fred Morrison, Denny Shute, MacDonald Smith, Craig Wood, Tommy Armour, George B. Smith, Joe Kirkwood, Charles Lacey, Mortie Dutra, Jack Patroni, John Fischer, Bob MacDonald, George von Elm, Al Zimmerman, Herman Barron, Tom Creavy, Francis Gallett and Charles Guest.

Meade and Fischer, Derby Jockeys, Are Suspended

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 8 (A.P.).—Rough riding in the Kentucky Derby Saturday brought suspension today to the jockeys who rode Broker's Tip, the winner, and Head Play, the second colt.

Herb W. Fischer, who had the mount on Mrs. Silas B. Mason's Head Play, was set down for 35 days, 30 days for rough riding and 5 days for striking Jockey Donald Meade after the race in the jockeys' quarters. Meade's suspension was for 30 days.

Fischer claimed a foul after the race Saturday and cried when the judges' disallowed it. Fischer claimed Meade pulled Head Play's saddle blanket and otherwise interferred with him and Meade claimed Fischer struck him twice with his whip. Later the two boys fought in the dressing room until separated by attendants.

Pictures, taken by different newspaper photographers, showed Fischer reaching far over with his left hand grasping at Meade's saddle blanket and Meade pushing at Fischer's shoulder as their mounts thundered toward the wire neck and neck. Each jockey was leaning out of the saddle toward the other.

The Churchill Downs stewards' ruling in announcing the suspension late today said "each boy, according to the evidence and observation, was guilty of grasping the equipment of the other."

Don Meade Ruled Out As Preakness Jockey

Baltimore, May 8 (A.P.).—Jockey Donald Meade, suspended today at Churchill Downs for 30 days because of rough riding in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, will not be permitted to ride in the Preakness Saturday.

Matt Daiger, secretary of the Maryland Jockey Club, operators of Pimlico track, said the suspension automatically prevented Meade from participation at Pimlico.

Herb Fischer, who also was suspended because of the fight he and Meade staged, had not planned to come to Maryland.

Such suspensions in Kentucky do not apply to engagements to ride in stake races, but it was not known here how Maryland racing stewards would rule on the matter. Meade is due to ride Broker's Tip in the Preakness at Pimlico, Md., Saturday. It has not yet been decided who is to ride Head Play in that race.

PIRATES WIN; 3 HITS OFF FRENCH

Pittsburgh Shuts Out Braves, 3 to 0, in Series Opener.

BOSTON May 8 (A.P.).—Larry "Lefty" French today held the Boston Braves to three scattered hits as the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates belted Tom Zachary for enough two-baggers to gain a 3-0 shutout in the series opener. It gave French his fourth winning performance in five starts.

Zachary, making his first start of the season, pitched a winning brand of baseball up to the fifth inning when Floyd Vaughan started the Pirates on their way by doubling to left. Tony Piet scored him with another two-bagger.

The Pirates were unable to increase their slim lead until the eighth, when Vaughan paired up with Paul Waner in another successive two-base act. The third Pittsburgh score, made with two out in the ninth, was unearned, for French gained first when Wes Schulmerich dropped his fly in right field and scored on singles by Lloyd and Fred Lindstrom.

French pitched airtight ball all the way. Only Baxter Jordan, who got two singles, and Bill Knothe were able to touch him for safeties and he gave but two passes, striking out five. Not a Brave reached third base in the speedy game, played in 1 hour and 28 minutes, and Jordan was the only one to touch second. In the second inning he singled and went down on a wild pitch.

TWO HOMERS LET CARDS TRIUMPH

Blows by Medwick and Frisch Defeat Giants, 4 to 3.

NEW YORK, May 8 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals got only three hits off Fitzsimmons today, but two of the blows were home runs by Joe Medwick and Frank Frisch, and they defeated the New York Giants, 4 to 3.

Medwick connected with his circuit blow in the second with the bases empty and Frisch came through with his blow in the eighth after Durocher and Martin had walked. Sam Leslie hit his second homer in as many days to account for all of the Giants' runs.

The defeat was Fitzsimmons' first of the season, while the victory was Tex Carleton's fourth. Neither finished the game, Fitzsimmons being taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth and Carleton was knocked off the mound in the same inning, Johnson and Dean finishing the game.

Londos-Savoldi Match Ordered

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—The Illinois State Athletic Commission today ordered Jim Londos and Joe Savoldi to meet in a return wrestling match at the Chicago Stadium within 30 days or forfeit their championship claims in this State.

The order was issued, the commission explained, to clear up the disputed one-fall victory of Savoldi over Londos April 7. If Savoldi refused to meet the Grecian Adonis in the ordered return match, the commission said it would be evidence that his victory was unearned; if Londos refused the match, Savoldi would be recognized as world's champion in Illinois.

If and when the match were held, the commission announced, it would be accepted as a championship battle. Each wrestler will be asked to post a forfeit.

Yankees Beat White Sox By 7-3

Brennan Staggering at Finish to Win Third in Row.

Victory Gives Yanks an Even Break in West to Date.

CHICAGO, May 8 (A.P.).—The world champion New York Yankees caught up with the West today for the first time since leaving the banks of the Harlem, beating the White Sox, 7 to 3, to open a new series and gain an even break in the first six games of the Western invasion.

Don Brennan, big right-hand rookie, allowed ten hits, but managed to stagger through the crisis to his third straight victory as the Yankees belabored Ted Lyons for twelve safeties and took advantage of six passes and two wild pitches. Lyons did far better on the offense, getting a pair of doubles and a single.

Lou Gehrig, Ben Chapman and Frank Crosetti led the Yankee hitters with a double and a single each, while Babe Ruth weighed in with two singles. The Sox twice came from behind in the early innings to tie the score, but Lyons, without his usual control, faltered badly in the late stages of the game.

The Yanks' victory boosted their advantage at the top of the American League to a full game as Cleveland was idle. The Yanks had been fighting a losing battle since invading the West, losing the opening game in Detroit and two out of four to the Indians before finding a "cousin" in Lyons today.

Earnshaw Is Sent Home to Condition

Detroit, May 8 (A.P.).—George Earnshaw, who left suddenly for Philadelphia late today after the first game of the Athletics' series with the Detroit Tigers had been called because of cold weather, was sent home to "get into condition," according to Connie Mack, manager of the club.

The veteran Earnshaw has suffered more than the youngsters this year because of the bad weather encountered by the Philadelphia club, which has had more than its share of rain and frigid breezes. Earnshaw has not worked since April 24, Mack said, and he feels that Earnshaw will have a better chance to get in shape by working out in the mornings in Philadelphia weather.

In no uncertain terms the A's manager spiked rumors of trouble with Earnshaw. "We don't need him in the Detroit or Cleveland series, and we will need him at home after that," said Mack. "The weather in the East is better, and I wanted him to work out in the morning."

Thomas and Crowder Are Knocked Out; McAfee Victor.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor The Post).

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., May 8.—There is joy in Collinsville tonight.

The 300-odd burghers from the Illinois town across the river from St. Louis who came to pay homage to our boy, Bob Boken, the native son with the Nats, who paraded their girls' drum and bugle corps around the field in the pregame ceremonies, who presented our boy Bob with a wrist watch at the plate before the game, who sat through eleven long, disappointing innings as our boy Bob took sock after sock in his once lofty batting average without the semblance of a hit, these good citizens received their reward in the twelfth.

Boken Connects in Twelfth.

Even Joe E. Brown, late of Hollywood, sat in open-mouthed wonder in a field box in the twelfth as our boy Bob made a bum of Horatio Alger, a piker out of Frank Merriwell.

Our boy Bob hadn't reached base in five times at bat. He hit but one ball out of infield, and once he struck out quite ingloriously. But with the score tied at 8-8 and one on and one out in the twelfth, Bob swung once more—and connected.

The little knot of good folks from Collinsville, who formed the only concentration of customers in the right field stands, went maniacal. And with cause. For our boy Bob had slammed Irving Hadley's pitch high into the concrete bleachers in left field for the home run that lifted the Nats to a 10-8 victory over the Browns in a game that had been won and lost a half dozen times before his climactic blow. The victory placed the Nats in a tie with the White Sox for second place.

Bill McAfee, the third of the Nats' pitchers, succeeded in holding the Browns in check in the last half of the twelfth, and then Boken held an uproarious court on the field as Collinsville's good citizens tumbled out of the stands to belabor the slip of a second baseman with hand slaps, bear hugs and otherwise maul him in their joy.

The lad, who is substituting for the injured Buddy Myer, is blossoming as a home run hitter, for his wallop today was his second in two games, both long, soaring clouts that make you wonder where the power comes from when you take a slant at the slatty Boken. But it must be there.

Sewell Fills Hero Role.

The Nats had another hero this afternoon, but subsequent developments in the ball game clouded his heroic efforts in the sixth inning. Washington was trailing the Browns, 6-5, when Luke Sewell, the other slugging fool in the lower end of the batting order, slugged one of Sam Gray's pitches high into the same left-field bleachers for the homer that put the Nats in a 7-6 lead for the time being.

Paul 6-to-5 Choice Tonight In Return Bout With Sarron

By DAVE HERMAN.

THE featherweight feud between Tommy Paul, former N. B. A. champion, and Pete Sarron, Dixie challenger, which was born exactly two weeks ago, will flare forth again tonight at Fortner's Arena, in Alexandria, Va., where the two strong-armed battlers exchange punches over the ten-round route in a return fight that should abound in action and thrills.

Their ring supremacy still swinging in the proverbial balance as a result of their last draw, Paul and Sarron will attempt to prove that a decision in favor of one or the other will be reached tonight, so confident is each of his ability to win.

Both fighters have their legion of supporters, and, although the swarthy Sarron, who has camped around these parts for the last four months, is an established favorite with all Alexandria and a good bit of Washington, the so-called boxing experts have installed the Buffalo pugilist as the 6-to-5 choice.

Had Him Guessing Last Time.

Sarron says Paul's weaving, bobbing shift had him guessing in a number of rounds in their last fight. He spent the last six days working out an attack that will enable him to penetrate the former titleholder's defense.

But this weaving and shifting business in not all Mr. Sarron will have to cope with. There is that dynamic left hook that Paul has employed so effectively in many stirring struggles that shot him to the front ranks, and later the championship at Detroit—just one year ago.

Paul is a boxing machine. He has perfect coordination in every punch he throws. He is cool. He has nerves of steel. He is one of the best featherweights to fight around here.

The Buffalo speed merchant has whipped Fidel Labarba, Bushy Graham, Frankie Wallace, Freddie Miller, present champion, and Johnny Pena (he beat Pena for the title), just to mention a few.

Sarron has many accomplishments to his credit. Only Emil Paluso and Fidel Labarba have decisioned him—and the Southerner has subdued every other sharpshooter pitted against him. They thought so much of him a few years ago that the Syrian was taken to Europe with the American Olympic team.

So busy is Sarron throwing punches that he spends little time putting up a defense. His offense actually is his defense. Watch him tonight, if you don't believe it. Sarron leaps out like a tiger, and throws his body into every shot. He is a rapid-fire two-fisted scrapper, clevey and aggressive.

Good Supporting Card.

They have a very good supporting card.

Roddy Davis, beaten this year only by Joe Britten, mingles with Nick (Schnozzle) Antonelli, of the Cornell-Donovan stable, in the eight-round semiwindup. Antonelli has a great fighting heart. His Garrison finishes in the ring have stamped him a favorite.

On the eve of the fight, Matchmaker Frankie Mann released the report that Douglas Swetnam, who was held to a draw by Heap-Much Injun Perry Knowles last week, will substitute for Jimmy (Kid) Smith, who suffered a broken hand, in the six-rounder with Bob Cleary, of Tommy Paul's Buffalo stable.

Opening the card at 8:30, Battling Carey Wright, the unbeaten Groves protege, will tackle Johnny DeMarco, newcomer from Philadelphia.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Paul to beat Sarron, Davis to beat Antonelli, Cleary to beat Swetnam, Wright to beat DeMarco.

GEORGE JESSEL IS VICTOR IN STEEPLECHASE AT PIMLICO

Second Place Annexed by Hieaway

Willingdon Third in 2-Mile Test; Sprint Won by Mexico.

Standout Scores Over Maidens; Card Run on Muddy Track.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 8.—George Jessel, a 6-year-old son of Playfellow, which has wandered about the Nation's race tracks, seldom earning his keep, suddenly discovered keen steeplechase ability today and led home a field of a dozen starters in a 2-mile trip over the local jumping layout. Three lengths behind came Hieaway, which beat out Willingdon for the place award. The entire money circle was full of surprises and mutuels collects were naturally heavy. George Jessel, named for the actor, paid $34.40 to win and Hieaway $40.20 to place. Willingdon showed at $9.40.

M. Mergler had the mount on the winner and rode a waiting race. George Jessel moved up fast after being held in check for a turn of the course.

Only two of the field failed to finish. The casualties were Creek and Royal Phantom and the crash of the former threw Pete Bostwick heavily, the gentleman rider suffering a broken collar bone. However, F. Shuler, tossed from Royal Phantom, escaped with a shaking-up.

Conditions were poor for racing both overhead and under foot. However, a surprisingly large crowd was on hand.

Smith Wins With Inspection.

Inspection with the veteran jockey, J. Smith, in the saddle proved a winning combination in the first race as a field of nine matched strides over the four and a half furlong juvenile course. Chatterdoo lasted to beat out Hair Trigger, the lukewarm choice for the show money. The winner paid $8.80.

Standout bounced out of the maiden class in the second race in easy fashion some eight lengths ahead of Scotch Soldier. Gramarye, of the Labrot entry, was third. Johnny Gilbert gave the winner a confident ride and his backers received $7.40 for each $2 wager.

Mexico came back with a slashing race to take the fourth race, a 6-furlong sprint. Benish Way, the early pace-setter, accounted for the place award with third money going to Carry The News. The Apprentice Dabson had the mount on the winner which had a two-length margin at the finish. Carry The News finished the race lame.

Ned O, an old Maryland favorite, came back to the winning circle in the fifth race, another 6-furlong affair. Cordoba was second and Mecat third as a field of ten competed.

Mecat Takes Third Money.

Cordoba and Pink Post battled for the lead with Ned O close behind. In the stretch, Dabson brought Ned O up on the outside and he wore down the leaders to win by a length and a half.

E. Kane's veteran distance runner, Bub McFarland, finally broke into the winning column when he earned a close decision in the mile and one-sixteenth of the sixth event and his score was largely attributed to the fine finish put up by Jockey J. Gilbert for his second success of the day.

Coming from behind Bub McFarland engaged Strongheart in a bitter battle during the stretch run and it was Gilbert's expert handling over Dewese on Strongheart that enabled the Kane silks to earn a nose decision. Strongheart saved second in a fighting finish with Zembla, while Ruane and the three others finished closely grouped.

The Ridgewood Farm Stable, one of a few Canadian stables recing in the East, took the seventh race, over a distance of a mile and one-sixteenth, when General Toy, under E. Fator's handling, lasted to beat A. Hullcoats' Mainsheet a length, while third place was occupied by Verity Ballot, the early pacemaker.

The mile and a sixteenth of the finale went to Uncle Donald when he led home Syriac by one length.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK, MAY 8.

Unless it stops raining around here I expect to see Happy Gordon leave his lead pony in the barn and take the fields to the post in a tugboat. And believe me, a continuation of the bad weather will knock this track's plans to operate out of the red for a row of what have youse. As for Mrs. Bennings' boy, he has long since hit the skids. Now all together, let's see if we can root a few of these home. BILL.

FIRST RACE—PIETY ran a very creditable race here and has been working well. Should have no fear of the off track. SUN CLOTHING will like the going and should be no worse than second. PEEDEEQUE closed a lot of ground the last time and may be third.

SECOND RACE—GARLIC finds a spot to his liking and may come rushing home in the stretch run. TARNISH worked well up-State and looks second best among these. REDCLIFFE has shown signs of early speed and may make a break for the money tomorrow.

THIRD RACE—ERIC THE RED ran a brilliant race the other day, and, although up against a stiffer field, I like him. GREEN CHEESE has class, but may bow to the condition of the top fellow. CHENANGO for the show.

FOURTH RACE—LADINO jumps up considerably in the mud, as well as several others in this field. However, Trueman has this one at top form, and I can't see them missing a purse here. WISE COUNT to beat out ON TAP for the place award.

FIFTH RACE—OLD BALDY eats mud and will be ready to do a lot of running in this sprint. The improved STAR PORTER is the one to beat. POMPOSO has that mud stamp of the sire Pompey and should not be worse than third.

SIXTH RACE—UNENCUMBERED is my longshot special. Get down. AEGIS is the one to cause the trouble. Likes this route and the going. ANNIMESSIC to show.

SEVENTH RACE—REVONAH is a three X mudder and figures to take care of this field. PRETTY WISE was a hot thing at The Graw, but got nothing. Might do better tomorrow. CENTER LANE to take care of the show.

EIGHTH RACE—SOEUR BLANCHE seems best to me in the final, although I look for a different race from WARD IN CHANCERY. OUR PAL to complete the picture.

PIMLICO, MARYLAND, CHART, MAY 8, 1933.

WEATHER, CLOUDY. TRACK, HEAVY.

FIRST RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:02. Off at 2:05½. Winner, Mrs. T. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—INSPECTION, $8.80, $5.20, $3.40; ASKE, $6.00, $4.80; CHATTERDOO, $7.20.

INSPECTION, shrewdly handled and hard urged to gain early command, saved ground wherever possible and held ASKE safe under light urging. ASKE bore out badly when leaving the back stretch, but continued stoutly all the way. CHATTERDOO moved up stoutly when straightened into the home stretch, but could not threaten the first two nearing the finish and was under stout pressure to withstand HAIR TRIGGER. Latter, broken up after the break, was unable to get to the pacemakers thereafter. He closed fast on the outside. HEXAMETER was outrun. BENDROMEL had no mishaps. ROYAL SEER tired. MATHIAS went wide all the way.

SECOND RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $800; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:34½. Winner, Mrs. W. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STANDOUT, $7.40, $4.00, $2.80; SCOTCH SOLDIER, $5.00, $3.00; GRAMARYE (Labrot entry), $2.60.

STANDOUT, at home in the going and taking an easy lead, drew clear when reaching the final turn and held sway thereafter. SCOTCH SOLDIER, well placed early, could not threaten the winner when put to a drive. GRAMARYE worked her way up gradually, but was held safe at the end. PELHAM lost ground the entire journey and was under severe punishment. He passed tiring horses in the final drive. EMERGENCY AID had no excuses. RUNNING PLAY raced evenly. ELECTRIC GAFF stopped in the final drive.

THIRD RACE—Two miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. The Raceland Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:01. Off at 3:04. Winner, Mrs. H. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GEORGE JESSEL, $34.40, $15.60, $13.20; HIEAWAY, $40.20, $29.00; WILLINGDON, $9.40.

GEORGE JESSEL, reserved for the first turn of the field, entered contention swiftly when leaving the eleventh jump, circled his company and drew away rapidly after the final fence. HIEAWAY, in the first flight and fencing well, took command at the ninth fence, jumped stoutly, but could not stall off the winner. WILLINGDON, rushed hard in in the last mile, outstayed CARDENEZA in the final test. SARDENEZA, saving ground and in hand for the first mile, made a determined challenge at the twelfth fence, weakened badly during the final drive. POINT BREEZE had no excuses. BRANDON BRANDER landed badly at the eighth fence. CREEK fell at the fifth fence and ROYAL PHANTOM at the same fence.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:33. Off at 3:35. Winner, S. W. Labrot's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEXICO, $4.80, $3.40, $2.40; BENISH WAY, $5.80, $4.00; CARRY THE NEWS, $3.20.

MEXICO, eased back slightly when leaving the back stretch, came around the leaders when ready for going into command without effort, was in hand all during final furlong. BENISH WAY, favored by the footing, drew into a clear lead when midway of the turn, but could not keep pace when the winner challenged. CARRY THE NEWS went forwardly placed and held on well. He pulled up lame. TOO LATE, a slow beginner, closed stoutly in the final drive. BRIGHT BIRD was outrun. BOHEMIAN GROVE stopped badly after a half mile.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:04. Off at 4:06½. Winner, R. Pending's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—NED O., $6.80, $3.80, $3.00; CORDOBA, $6.20, $3.80; MECAT (field), $3.80.

NED O., suited by the footing and kept in the thick of contention, reached CORDOBA entering the home stretch, wore the latter down and was under stout handling at the end. CORDOBA raced PINK POST into defeat, saved ground and continued gamely when hard urged. MECAT, hard ridden all the way, came through on the inside during the stretch drive and outfinished MACK SENNETT. Latter went forwardly placed, but tired in the final drive. HACKY H. broke slowly and then was steered wide. PINK POST stopped badly.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:31. Off at 4:32. Winner, E. Kane's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BUB M'FARLAND, $5.20, $3.60, $3.00; STRONGHEART, $5.40, $5.20; ZEMBLA, $18.80.

BUB M'FARLAND moved up steadily in the last half mile, secured racing room on the inside of the leaders when straightened into the home stretch and, in a stout finish, was up in the final strides. STRONGHEART, rated within striking distance of the leaders, came stoutly to displace MY FERGUS and BUBOLA, and then fought it out stubbornly. ZEMBLA, kept out in the former footing all the way, bumped RUANE repeatedly during the stretch run and came strongly. RUANE, in the deepest footing until reaching the home stretch, overcame interference and finished gamely. BUBOLA was used up racing with MY FERGUS. The latter tired when reaching the home stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:01. Off at 5:06. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL TOY, $8.00, $4.60, $3.60; MAINSHEET, $5.20, $3.80; VERITY BALLOT, $4.80.

GENERAL TOY, at home in the going and in nearest pursuit of VERITY BALLOT after reaching the back stretch, went to the front with a rush at the stretch turn, but had to be shaken up smartly to withstand MAINSHEET. Latter, badly outrun early, finished full of run under weak handling. VERITY BALLOT sprinted into a long lead at the back stretch, but faltered steadily in the last quarter mile. BROWN SINNER gamely all the way. OREGON FIR, kept in the deepest footing most of the trip, failed to respond in the final drive. TRENTONIAN had no mishaps. SAND BELL could not untrack himself in the going.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. The Rose Hill Manor. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:35. Off at 5:36. Two-dollar mutuels paid—UNCLE DONALD, $7.20, $3.80, $2.80; SYRIAC, $3.80, $3.40; DARK VISION, $11.20.

UNCLE DONALD, full of run and racing DENON into submission, drew out when reaching the home stretch and then had to be mildly shaken up to stall off SYRIAC. Latter, kept on the outside of his field the entire journey, came stoutly in the last half mile. DARK VISION, far back for six furlongs, closed a big gap. AXENTRA, ridden hard all the way, was not good enough after racing forwardly. DENON, steadied in the early racing, flattened out when the final test came. TRUE SWEEP had no excuses, as did the others.

Derby Winner Arrives for Preakness

Broker's Tip, Other Stars Reach Pimlico Track.

BALTIMORE, May 8 (A.P.).—The Kentucky Derby winner, Col. E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip, arrived in Baltimore from Louisville today to start training for the $25,000 added Preakness at Pimlico Saturday.

On the same train was his chief Eastern rival, the W. R. Coe colt, Ladysman. Other horses arriving from Louisville were the Coe entries, Pomponious and Pompoleon; the Catawba Farm's Good Advice and Mr. Khayyam, and Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Dark Winter.

Mrs. Silas S. Mason's Head Play, which lost by a nose to Broker's Tip in one of the most exciting finishes in turf history, was expected here tomorrow.

Owner Confident of Head Play.

Mrs. Mason, who purchased Head Play for $30,000 just before the Derby, was confident today her entry will be better than a close second.

"It will be a different story in the Preakness," she said. "I'm entirely satisfied with my horse, and with his performance in the Derby. He'll turn the tables on Broker's Tip."

W. R. (Buddy) Stotler, trainer of Ladysman, was not so optimistic about Ladysman's chances. He said he believed the colt could perform better than he did in the Derby, when he was seven lengths behind the leaders.

All the horses stood the trip in good shape and were expected to be out on the track tomorrow for workouts. A heavy rain fell today, and few trainers risked their charges outside.

Mrs. Mason today had not definitely decided who would ride Head Play, although it is generally believed that Alfred Robertson will be offered the mount. Donald Meade, who piloted Broker's Tip Saturday, is expected to ride the Bradley entry again in the Preakness.

Pete Bostwick Breaks Collar Bone in Spill

Pimlico, Md., May 8 (U.P.).—George H. ("Pete") Bostwick, young millionaire amateur jockey, suffered a broken collar bone today when his mount, Creek, fell during the running of the Raceland Steeplechase.

At first it was feared that Bostwick was injured seriously. The Jockey Club's physician, Dr. Dalton, set the shoulder, and Bostwick left for New York soon afterward.

Bostwick compiled a brilliant record during the recent steeplechase and hurdle racing season in England. Riding 63 mounts, he won 11 races, was second in 7, third in 11 and unplaced in 34.

CENTRAL TO BATTLE WESTERN TODAY

Mt. Pleasant Team Packs Punch

Cowan to Pitch for Blue and White Diamonders.

Ready or Grimm Due to Do Flinging for Georgetowners.

UNLESS the weather man gets hep to the scheme, Central and Western will play the third game of the interhigh school baseball series this afternoon at Eastern Stadium. But if the boys do sneak in a game on the vigilant rain-or-shine forecasters, nightfall should find Central leading the race, with two victories against no defeats.

On the well-marked dope sheet, Central figures to be several runs better than Coach Cliff Moore's Red Sox. If it were not the high school series, the estimated difference between the two could be very safely stretched several points. But funny things have happened in previous years—that triple tie for the honors last season is a good example—and even funnier happenings are expected.

Cowan Likely to Hurl for Central.

Claude Cowan, who silenced Eastern's attack last week, probably will hurl for the Blue. Opposed to him will be Reds Ready or Bob Grimm. Cowan's chances of stopping Western are much brighter than those of his rivals of halting Central.

Something will have to be done about Cliff Keyser if the Reds expect to crash the win column today. All Keyser did against Eastern was belt two balls over the center field post for home runs. The few times Keyser's bat failed to connect with the ball Shorty Chumbris, De Lisio and the other members of Coach Jack Ray's wrecking crew were driving out singles, doubles and sundry other hits.

But there may be some action from the rival bench. Western garnered a healthy number of hits off "Bubba" Wiles and Eddie Turner, of Tech, although Turner turned in a pretty bit of relief hurling to thwart the team's hopes for victory.

Plenty of Stick-Power Looked For.

It is not improbable that the Georgetowners will do the same against Central. But it will require a vast number of bingles to bag the decision. Central can hit if it can do nothing else, and it isn't very weak afield.

Friday Eastern and Tech will battle it out in one of the most important games of the series. Eastern must win to remain in the running and Tech will enhance its chances of copping the flag with a victory over the Lincoln Parkers.

Burl Faces Wolgast In Baltimore Match

Burl is remembered for his stirring victory over Jimmy Mack last November at Portner's.

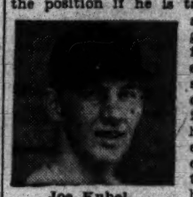
First Baseman Needs Two Natural Assets, Says Kuhel

In view of the opening this week of the Capital City League and feeling that timely articles concerning the duties and worth of various members of a baseball team might be of benefit to those playing in the league, The Post herewith presents the second of a series of stories by regulars of the Washington team.

By JOE KUHEL
(First Baseman of Nationals).

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—A first baseman should have two natural assets. He is better adapted to the position if he is tall and rangy and affords a good target for the thrower and he is severely handicapped if he is not a left-handed thrower. It can be easily seen that a left-handed first baseman, wearing his mitt on his right hand, is in a far better position to take a throw from the pitcher or catcher in an attempt to catch a runner off the bag, inasmuch as the base runner is always on the right-hand side of the bag and tagging him with the left hand would be awkward and much slower. The value of the left-handed thrower lies in his ability to get the ball around the bases if necessary without the trouble of pivoting, as a right-hander must do.



Joe Kuhel.

In covering the bag on all throws, it is wise to keep the left foot on the corner of the bag nearest the pitcher's box, not only to avoid being spiked, but to enable you to shorten the flight of the ball as much as possible. In throwing around the bases, it is the first baseman's job, as well as that of all other infielders, to keep the ball above the receiver's belt, if possible, in order that he in turn will be in easy throwing position.

Judging the speed of the base runners is very necessary on all bunts in order that you may be able to cut off runners at second or third, and it is a factor, too, in deciding whether or not to throw to the pitcher at first base on balls hit your way. My theory is that if there is any doubt whatsoever of the closeness of the player, the proper thing is to let the pitcher make the put-out, but if one has plenty of time it is safe to beat the runner to the bag.

Miller and Heights Nines To Open League Tomorrow

AT THE helm of the Miller team directing its play tomorrow night when it meets Congress Heights in the opening game of the Capital City League, will be none other than Curtis E. (Cack) Curtin, youngest sandlot manager in the city. And just as Bucky Harris led Washington to its first American League pennant back in the halcyon days of 1924, so Cack hopes to pilot the Millers to their first unlimited championship.

Managing baseball teams is not a new role for Curtin. In 1928 he led Vic's A. C. to the junior championship, and the year before that his Emery Doughnut boys finished second in the Atlas midget loop. Cack organized his own team in 1930 under the name of Curtin's All-Stars and it was runner-up for the senior honors that year.

Last year he assisted George W. Thompson with the Millers in the senior division and the Furniture dealers won the title. Thompson, after building up one of the strongest athletic clubs ever founded around Lincoln Park—and many a good team was organized in that area—has retired to the sidelines this year and Cack will direct the team alone.

The Millers are expected to be strong contenders for the honors this season. With such sluggers as "Horse" Reigleman, Francis Bradley, Benner and Carey Maupin, there is little danger that the team will suffer from weak hitting. Two regulars, Waverly Wheeler and Knocky Thomas, will not be eligible until after the high school series, but there are enough capable substitutes available to fill their positions without a loss of power.

Sunday the team journeyed to Orange, Va., and handed the Ramblers a double dose of defeat, winning by scores of 4-3 and 9-3. That would seem to be proof enough that they are ready to meet the challenge of Congress Heights tomorrow night.

Manor Golf Title Chase Is On Today

With 370 golfers competing, the Manor invitation tournament will get under way this morning at 7 o'clock, with an eighteen-hole medal round scheduled over the Norbeck (Md.) course.

Ted Burrows, winner of the last Manor event, will defend his championship against a large and representative field, star players from every District club being among the list of contenders for honors.

To C. W. Stoddard, of Manor, and C. C. Heath, unattached, goes the honor of teeing off first. Due to the large number of entrants only half of the field will vie today. The rest will try their fortunes tomorrow. Following medal rounds, five flights of sixteen each will be chosen for match play, beginning Thursday and continuing through Friday.

Among the bright lights entered are Harry Pitt, of Manor, big favorite; Maurice Nee and Billy Dettweiler, of Manor; Luther Steward, jr., and Jack McCarron, of Congressional; Capt. K. J. Fielder, of Army and Navy; J. W. Harvey, jr., and Dr. Larry Otell, of Indian Spring, and numerous players from local college golf teams.

Ross Must Not Fight Before Canzoneri Bout

Chicago, May 8 (U.P.).—Barney Ross, Chicago boxer, who will meet Tony Canzoneri here for the lightweight championship June 22, has been ordered by the Chicago Stadium Operating Co. not to accept any more bouts before the titular test.

Sam Pian and Art Winch, managers of Ross, had planned to send Barney into bouts at Terre Haute and Minneapolis. They were notified by the stadium that such actions violated Ross' contract.

EDDIE RAN WINNER.

New York, May 8 (A.P.).—Eddie Ran, slugging right-hand puncher from Poland, stopped Benny Levine, of Newark, in 48 seconds of the tenth and last round of a one-sided bout at the St. Nicholas Arena tonight. Ran weighed 147¾ pounds; Levine, 140½.

Ran floored the Newark boy for counts of nine in the first and fourth rounds and had him down twice in the tenth session for similar counts, when the referee stopped the match. Levine was outclassed all the way.

HAWKS TO MEET.

Hawk A. C. will meet tonight at 246 Tenth street southeast. For games with the team, call Lincoln 8367-L.

W. & L. Nine Meets Maryland Today

Prevented from playing Georgetown yesterday by unfavorable weather, Washington and Lee will make its second attempt to get into action this afternoon at College Park, where it is scheduled to tangle with the Old Liners. Georgetown's tennis match with William and Mary and George Washington's baseball game with the Sixth Reserve Brigade Marines are the only other collegiate contests on today's card.

After Coach Burton Shipley's vigorous shake-up, Maryland appears to be a better balanced team, but rain has prevented the team from displaying its new batting order. Shipley was undecided about his starting pitcher last night, but Bill McIlwee probably will get the call.

Harridge Off to Attend League's Session Today

Chicago, May 8 (U.P.).—William Harridge, president of the American League, left tonight to attend the spring meeting of the circuit at Cleveland tomorrow.

The election of Thomas A. Yawkey, new owner and president of the Boston Club, to official membership in the American League is the main business ahead of the gathering, President Harridge said.

BOKEN'S HOME RUN GIVES NATS VICTORY

Both teams were slug nutty this afternoon, with base hits rattling off the fences like castanets in the hands of a Spanish dancer with the heebie-jeebies. The Nats amassed a grand total of 20 hits and the Browns compiled 15, with Luke Sewell the outstanding menace of the day with five rollicking wallops including his home run, two doubles and two singles.

The Nats had the ball game won with two out in the ninth, but Lindo Storti, the sawed-off third baseman of the Browns, smashed a triple down the first-base line to score Garms, who had singled, and Burns, who had walked.

Thomas Relieved by Crowder.

Al Thomas, starting his first game for the Nats, failed to last the second inning. The Browns had socked him for two runs in the first and the Nats had tied the score in the second on a double by Kuhel and Sewell's single, but when Lloyd Brown, the former Nat pitching for St. Louis, doubled to give the Browns a 1-run lead in the second, Thomas was excused in favor of Al Crowder.

The Nats picked up two more runs off Brown in the third to go into the lead again, but Levey doubled in the fourth and scored on Bluege's error to deadlock the game once more and then Campbell hit a homer and Burns tripled for two more runs off Crowder in the fifth to go into a 6-4 lead.

Sewell's homer put the Nats in front again in the sixth, and this lead was increased to two runs when Bluege, Goslin and Schulte singled in the ninth, but McAfee couldn't hold it.

Double Play Made in Ninth.

Garms and Sam West led off the ninth with singles and a double play wiped out West and Campbell, but McAfee walked Burns and the tying runs scored on Storti's triple.

Washington's hopes rose immediately in the twelfth as Cronin led off with a single, but when he tried to reach third on Schulte's fourth single of the day, Campbell's throw beat him there and it looked like curtains for the rally. But along came our boy Bob to pick up the sputtering torch of competition and fan it to full flame with the home run that caused the bellows to be heard in Collinsville.

Hudson Wins Best Bout Of J. C. C.

Shube, Mirman and Mike Tardugno in Amateur Wins.

TWO big boys, Steve Muti and Jake Hudson, banked all around the ring to steal the show from a very well balanced card of amateur boxing at the Jewish Community Center last night. Muti, fighting under the colors of the J. C. C., lost to his Baltimore opponent by a hair's breadth, which represented the difference between proper timing and some rather wild swinging. Both boys are heavy punchers and Hudson was the better boxer last night.

Most of the time he was able to counter Steve's roundhouse lunges nicely, but in the last round he stopped a couple of punches, delivered "a la Max Baer," that had him wobbly and all softened up for a knock-out punch that Muti was unable to plant in a vital spot.

Shube Outpoints Driscoll.

Leon Shube, the Center's 135-pound hope, decisively outpointed Russell Driscoll, of Baltimore, in another pleasing match. Shube, southpaw, kept wading in aggressively, throwing fast rights and hard lefts. Driscoll boxed well, but was unable to work properly against Shube's boring-in style and portside tactics.

Gus Mirman, of the J. C. C., won a rather one-sided decision from the crafty Benny Horn, of Baltimore. Mirman was a head taller than his roly-poly opponent and seemingly many pounds heavier, but was unable to penetrate Horn's elbow defense for a knockout. Although decisively defeated, Horn managed to inject several hearty laughs into the proceedings with his usual clowning tactics.

Angie Tardugno, recently crowned National A. A. U. 118-pound champion, was unable to box because of an injured hand, but his two brothers boxed. Brother Joe bowed to Baltimore Joe Bruno, because Bruno was a smarter ringster. Brother Mike won from Harry Faon because he kept on top of him from the opening bell.

60 pounds—Charley Petro and Dan Petro; draw.

118 pounds—Harry Thompson (Boys Club) defeated Bill Collins (Boys Club).

118 pounds—Willie Furey (A. A. U. champion) knocked out Frank Leimbach (Golden Gloves champion), in 1 minute and 20 seconds of the first round.

126 pounds—Joe Pickrell (Boys Club) technically knocked out Bill Vermillion in the first round (bout stopped by referee after the first round because of cut over Vermillion's eye).

INTERCITY BOUTS.

126 pounds—Joe Bruno (Balto.) defeated Joe Tardugno (Wash.).

126 pounds—Lou Gevinson (Wash.) defeated Lou Votta (Balto.).

135 pounds—Leon Shube (Wash.) defeated Russel Driscoll (Balto.).

160 pounds—Jake Hudson (Balto.) defeated Steve Muti (Wash.).

175 pounds—Gus Mirman (Wash.) defeated Benny Horn (Balto.).

126 pounds—Mike Tardugno (Wash.) defeated Harry Farron (Balto.).

Golf Contest Arranged At World's Fair June 4

Chicago, May 8 (A.P.).—Arrangements were announced today for a best shot contest as a feature of the Century of Progress exposition June 4.

Many of the best golfers will compete for a $5,000 purse. Cash prizes will be offered for the best drives, long iron shots and shot approaches. The contest will be held in Soldiers' Field. The Chicago American announced it would guarantee the purse.

National Capital Loop Starts Play Friday

Washington's newest week-day baseball league, the National Capital, will inaugurate its season Friday on the West Ellipse. Acacia Insurance and Barber & Ross will be opponents. The league is composed of five teams, the others being Pepco, Standard Oil and C. & P. Telephone Co.

J. C. Koons was elected president of the circuit at a recent meeting. Other officers chosen were George P. Jones, vice president; H. T. Morrison, secretary-treasurer, and I. B. Goad, official scorer. Dick Williams, of the Capital City Association, will umpire all games.

Baker, of Washington, To Referee Tennis Play

Hot Springs, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—Lawrence A. Baker, of Washington, D. C., vice president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, has accepted the invitation of the Cuban and Canadian Lawn Tennis Associations to referee the Davis Cup matches between Cuba and Canada beginning Thursday.

The Cubans, including Capt. Ricardo Morales, Lorenzo Nodarse, Arturo Randin and Jose Aguaro, are hiking through the mountain gorges as a part of their training. The Canadians are mixing a little bridge with physical exercise.

Garnett H. Meldrum, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association, arrived last night with Gilbert Nunnes, a member of the Canadian Team. Both teams have engaged in practice and appear at top form.

25 Schools Entered in "C" Meet

All D. C. Institutions to Compete in May 20 Track Games.

A SMALL army of track and field athletes, representing twenty-five schools, including the five Washington public high schools, will compete in the annual "C" Club track meet scheduled Saturday, May 20, at Wilson Stadium, it was announced yesterday by Gene Casey, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

An elaborate program has been arranged which will include the standard contests and three feature events. The added attractions are a half-mile relay, 1-mile relay, and sprint medley relay. In the last mentioned participants will run 220, 440 and 880 yards, respectively.

Mercersburg May Send Team.

Possibility that a team from Mercersburg Academy would compete was voiced by Casey, who has forwarded information concerning the meet to the Pennsylvania school. Mercersburg is rated as one of the strongest prep schools in the East.

Schools which will be represented are as follows: Devitt, Emerson, Friends, Catonsville, Forest Park, Georgetown Prep, Hyattsville, Silver Spring, Sparrows Point, Bethesda-Chevy Chase, Tome Institute, Episcopal, Fork Union, Harrisonburg, John Marshall, Massanutten, Newport News, Staunton, Woodbury Forest, Washington and Lee, and Greenbrier.

All-Events Bowling Lead to Litchfield

The dull sound of lumber striking lumber heralded the rise of "Whip" Litchfield to the leadership in Class A all-events competition of the Washington City Bowling Tournament last night at the Lucky Strike Alleys.

Litchfield assumed the lead with a grand total of 1,149, the result of sets of 388 in the team rolling, 407 in singles, and 350 in doubles. His singles score was a single pin short of tying Joe Preschi for the lead in this event.

Convention Hall rolled into second place in Class A team event on the strength of its 1,863 total for the evening. Eddie Espey massaged the maples for a game of 173, highest the tournament has produced thus far, and a 390 set. Paully Harrison's set exceeded his teammates' by nine pins. pins.

It is interesting to note that both Colonial Ice Cream, leading the event, and Convention Hall, are represented by identical teams with the exception of one man. Joe Priecl rolls for Colonial Ice Cream and Joe Harrison replaced him on the Hall group's roster.

Tonight at the Columbia Alleys, the Washington Women's Duckpin Association will stage its mixed doubles tournament, starting at 8 o'clock.

Star Cup Golf Play Is Delayed by Rain

Miss Virginia Williams, of Congressional, is the defending champion.

VICTORY FORESEEN IN CRAWFORD CASE

Loudoun County Prosecutor Prepared to Take Fight to U. S. Supreme Court.

Richmond, Va., May 8 (A.P.).—John Galleher, Loudoun County Commonwealth's attorney, today said the George Crawford case is being prepared with a view to testing it before the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, and that he will go to Boston this week to confer with Assistant Attorney General Stephen Bacigalupo, of Massachusetts.

Mr. Galleher, Attorney General John R. Saunders and one of his assistants will assist Massachusette authorities when the case is reviewed before the Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston, May 23.

Crawford is indicted for murder of Mrs. Agnes Boeing Isley and her maid, Mrs. Mine Buckner, at Middleburg. He was freed on habeas corpus proceedings by Federal District Judge James A. Lowell on the grounds that since Negroes do not serve on juries in Virginia the Supreme Court of the United States would set aside any conviction that might be found against him.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts previously had granted extradition and now has appealed from the Lowell decision.

"We are confident that we will win the case before the Circuit Court," Mr. Galleher said. "But if we do not, we certainly shall seek to carry it on to the Supreme Court of the United States."

The other contestants are Miss Anna Mudd, of Bryantown, Md.; Miss Loretta Raum, of Baltimore, and Miss Rosalie Patterson, of Westernport, Md. Delegations from Baltimore, Cumberland, Westernport and Bryantown are expected to attend the contest.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

KIT CARSON, famous scout of the old West and later brigadier general in the United States Army, was once a fugitive—a reward was posted for his capture. The reward offered was one cent. It was posted by an employer to whom Carson, then a boy of 16, had been apprenticed. Announcing that Carson had run away, the employer, David Workman, inserted the following notice in the Missouri Intelligencer, Franklin, Mo., on October 6, 1826:

"Notice is hereby given to all persons,

"That Christopher Carson, a boy about 16 years old, small of his age, but thick set, light hair, ran away from the subscriber, living in Franklin, Howard County, Mo., to whom he had been bound to learn the saddler's trade, on or about the first of September, last. He is supposed to have made his way toward the upper part of the State. All persons are notified not to harbor, support or assist said boy under the penalty of the law. One cent reward will be given to any person who will bring back the said boy. DAVID WORKMAN."

Christopher Columbus, under whose direction the City of Santo Domingo was founded, returned to the port of the city in June, 1502, during his fourth trip to America, and asked that his small fleet of four vessels be allowed to take refuge within the harbor from an impending storm. For political reasons the governor of the colony, Nicolas de Ovando, refused the city's founder safety in its harbor.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

RULERS OF THE U. S. A.

HENRY THE FIRST was a very fine scholar
And scholars are known to be wise;
He was never in doubt, and he rubbed nothing out,
And he always knew all the replies.
But his fondness for lampreys he couldn't keep under,
He asked for six helpings one night, so no wonder
If, very soon after, his blood-vessel burst,
Which finished the learning of Henry the First.
From "Kings and Queens."

• • • •

George Washington was a fighting man
Who rode a charger skittish;
He helped the British lick the braves—
And then he licked the British.

He scorned the offer of a crown
And made the proffers shake it;
Oh, little did he think some day
Frank Roosevelt would take it.

• • • •

Andrew Jackson was a man
Who loved the smoke and powder;
When cannons roared beside his ear
He'd bellow, "Louder! Louder!"

For breakfast he liked Injuns served
On nicely buttered toast;
For lunch he'd shoot an enemy
And serve him as a roast.

He was a fighting President,
A man of fiercest mixtures;
His hard luck was that in his time
There were no moving pictures.

• • • •

Grover Cleveland came from Buffalo,
He liked to fish, if you would row;
He was so very honest he
Was quite a curiosity.

He always held that fishing was
The highest form of art,
And was the only President
Who, fishing, looked the part.

• • • •

Woodrow Wilson was a Tiger teacher
Who looked and talked much like a preacher;
He talked so fast no politician
Could follow him in good condition.

He landed in the White House neatly
And left the bosses stunned completely;
And that was the start of all his trouble—
He should have had a hard-boiled double.

• • • •

Calvin Coolidge, taciturn,
Saw the bullish days return;
He saw the citizens go crazy
And thought the outlook very hazy.

While we sang songs and took to drinking
Cal Coolidge sat there thinking, thinking . . .
He saw the cyclone swiftly growing
And notified the folks, "I'm going."

• • • •

Franklin D. Roosevelt, wherever he went,
Named Alfred E. Smith to be President;
It didn't do Alfred a bit of good
But it helped our Frank (as he knew it would).

One day the folks heard Franklin D.
Say, "Folks, I'm nominating me!"
It was in the bag for him all the while
For he had a wonderful newsreel smile.

One day he was just, "You ol' pertater"—
The next he was our sole Dictator;
Just where we are going we can't decide
But, boy, we will know that we've had a ride!

POOR UNCLE SAM.

Yankee Doodle came to town
And built himself a nation,
But Dr. Tugwell flunked him and
Said, "What an aggravation!"

The doctor marked him zero and
Said, "Ignorance I war on;
We scholars are the Nation's brains—
And Uncle Sam's a moron!"

Elmer Twitchell understands that if Columbia professors don't save the country, Yale and Harvard will be given a chance. But he doubts that anything can really be accomplished until we call in Notre Dame.

Nothing is so unflattering these days as to be told you're worth your weight in gold.

The lady who shouted to Congress, "You can't spend money you haven't got," was not, it has been ascertained, a married woman.

SCOTTSBORO MARCH ENCORE THREATENED AFTER VAIN DEMAND

3,000 Fail to See President; De Priest Calls Parade Mistake.

After a day of demand for the unconditional release of the nine Negro defendants in the famous Scottsboro case, 3,000 bedraggled whites and Negroes left the Capitol last night shouting defiance to the Government and threatening to return in numbers tenfold.

Refused admittance to see President Roosevelt, who was in conference with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, special German envoy, a committee complained bitterly and presented their petition to Louis McHenry Howe, White House secretary.

Outside the White House more than 3,000 marchers were halted in the rain on South Executive avenue singing the "Internationale" and shouting "Release the Scottsboro boys!"

Descend on Congress.

Expressing resentment at their petitioners being refused an audience with the President, the marchers paraded up Pennsylvania avenue under heavy police escort to the Capitol, where they were allowed to see Speaker Rainey.

Questioned by Speaker Rainey, Ruby Bates, who created a sensation in the second trial by appearing as a defense witness and retracting testimony that she was a victim of criminal assault, declared "the Scottsboro boys" to be innocent.

The audience with Mr. Rainey was concluded with his statement:

"The petition will be referred to the Judiciary Committee."

A few minutes later Vice President Garner was dismissing the delegation, saying their petition would be given to the appropriate Senate committee.

Rebuked by De Priest.

Led by William L. Patterson, of the International Labor Defense, the committee made a last resort effort and appeared before Oscar De Priest, colored Representative from Illinois, who rebuked them for "parading their case in Washington."

When called upon for his opinion Representative De Priest flatly refused, referring the committee to his recent speech on the Scottsboro case in the House.

"I have already gone on record as to my opinions on the case. It can not be settled by your parading in the Capital; it is a case for the State and your presence in Washington fails to help the cause," De Priest said.

A few minutes later the parade was disbanded in Seaton Park, after speakers denounced Government officials as tools of industrial leaders and "enemies of the white and Negro workers of this country."

Fugitive From California Held in $15,000 Bail

Unable last night to raise bond amounting to $15,000, set by Police Court Judge Gus A. Schuldt, Kenneth J. Hines, 39, was held at the Fifth Precinct Station waiting for an extradition hearing which probably will be held today.

Hines was arrested Sunday on a fugitive warrant charging him with violating the State securities act of California and grand larceny to the amount of $30,000 from Los Angeles several months ago. He said he will not fight extradition.

Fire Department Promotions Asked

Resolutions asking that the major positions in the Fire Department be filled by the promotion of men who have been in the service for five years or more, and suggesting persons now receiving assistance from charity agencies be given preference when unskilled laborers are to be employed in District improvement work were adopted last night by the Hillcrest Citizens Association.

The association opposed any curtailment of the appropriations for the Community Center work of the District. It was pointed out that the appropriation for that work was reduced from $42,000 to $30,000 this year, and a further reduction is proposed for the next fiscal year.

Their daughter, Miss Gladys Morse, an employe at the War Department, and their son, Dr. W. J. Morse, a specialist at the Department of Agriculture, will be present. The couple were married in Lowville, N. Y., and have lived in this city since 1909.

MORE POLICEWOMEN ARE CALLED NEEDED

Capt. Milliken Tells Kalorama Citizens of Work Caused by Slump.

Continuance of the Women's Bureau of the Metropolitan Police Department in its present status, with an increase in its personnel, was asked of Congress last night by the Kalorama Citizens' Association.

This action was taken after Capt. Rhoda Milliken, head of the bureau, had outlined the work accomplished in the past three years. This work was principally among delinquent girls and transient children.

Capt. Milliken stressed the transient problem. She stated that there was not adequate resources among charitable institutions for transient women and girls in the district, and that the Women's Bureau was now compelled to take care of hundreds each year.

The transient children, of which the bureau handled more than 1,200 last year, she said, are due largely to the depression, which has forced their parents to neglect them. The depression was also blamed for the large influx of delinquent girls to this city.

Miss Milliken urged all citizens to protest against the opening of any more taxi-dance halls in the city. It is not only a moral hazard to young girls, she said, but is very detrimental to their health as they are required to dance more than four hours continuously on concrete floors.

Inquest Will Be Held In Death of Shipley

An inquest into the death of Jesse F. Shipley, 24, of 1650 Avon place northwest, who suffered fatal injuries as a result of an automobile accident at Thirtieth and Q streets northwest early yesterday, will be held today at 11:30 a. m. at the Morgue.

Walter H. Allison, 19, of 2912 Twelfth street northeast, driver of the machine in which Shipley was riding, was recovering last night at Gallinger Hospital from minor injuries. John C. Price, 35, of 312 Indiana avenue northwest, driver of the taxicab which collided with Allison's car, was being held at the Seventh Precinct station for the coroner's inquest.

Citizens Hear Progress Made in Street Work

Progress in the efforts to straighten Arkansas avenue at Decatur street northwest was reported at the Piney Branch Citizens Association last night.

The commitee charged specifically with the negotiations for the change in the avenue, reported property owners had agreed to the plans and an alignment had been made for submission to the Street Department for approval.

TWO DAYS REMAIN TO PAY BEER FEES

265 Dealers Ante Up $2,500 for Licenses One Day With Total $8,346.

With but two of the ten days allotted remaining for Washington beer licensees to pay the municipal tax of $1 a barrel, only half of the 1,700 temporary permit holders had filed returns with the District tax assessor's office at the close of business yesterday.

Tax collections yesterday amounted to $2,500, collected from 265 dealers. This brings the total to date to $8,346 paid by 861 off-sale and on-sale licensees.

Deputy Tax Assessor Charles A. Russell reiterated a warning that there will be no extension of time for filing of returns and that the licenses of those who have not paid the tax by Wednesday night will be revoked by the District Commissioners.

Tax collections so far have fallen short of expectations, despite the scramble for the 3.2 per cent brew during the first few days after its legalization. Sales for the 23 days in April have averaged but nine barrels to a dealer.

Even with a recognition of the shortage of beer for the first two or three weeks, it is believed that the first month's taxes will not exceed $15,000 and may fall short of this estimate. On this basis the year's revenue would fall far short of $200,000 despite early predictions that the beer tax would net the District government $365,000 a year.

The Beverage Permits Board yesterday approved 15 more temporary permits.

Treasury Worker, Ill, Ends His Life

Funeral services for Clarence Kibbey, 33-year-old employe of the Liberty Loan Annex of the Treasury Department, who shot and killed himself yesterday at his home, 615 Webster street northwest, will be held at 11 a. m. today from his home, followed by interment in Congressional Cemetery. According to police the man took his life because of ill health.

Kibbey shot himself in the head on the steps of the attic of his home shortly after his wife had gone to work and his 11-year-old son had left for school. Herbert Pillow, a roomer, heard the shot and found Kibbey dead.

He left a will bequeathing all his property to his wife, Mrs. Marguerite Kibbey, and a list of debts and assets. A certificate of suicide was issued by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

TYPHOID HELD CURE OF ST. VITUS DANCE IF UNDER CONTROL

Congress of Physicians and Surgeons Will Meet in Capital Today.

Properly controlled typhoid fever injections were advanced as a cure for chorea, commonly known as "St. Vitus Dance," at a meeting of the American Pediatric Society last night at the Carlton Hotel. The society is one of the fourteen organizations holding sessions in various parts of the city during the convention of the Congress of American Physicians and Surgeons.

The new method of treatment presented at the meeting by three physicians was said to reduce the length of treatment of chorea. The usual time of treatment with the use of old methods has been from six weeks to six months. Using typhoid injections cures have been obtained in eight to sixteen days.

The treatment requires about six injections and must be given under careful supervision. More than 200 successful cases have been reported with the use of the induced fever.

Doubted Foods Indorsed.

Some of the country's foremost child specialists attended the society's meeting. Most of the sessions of the societies meeting concurrently with the congress will open today.

Blasting the old tradition that bananas and squash were harmful to children, Dr. Harold L. Higgins presented a paper at the meeting of the pediatric specialists which stated that the two foods had no deleterious effects.

Dr. Samuel Levine, aided by four other specialists in child nutrition and treatment, presented a paper on "The Fate of Water in a Normal Infant." The evaporation of water through the skin of a child is important in regulating body heat, he stated.

Dr. Mayo Speaks Today.

In addition to the pediatric group the following organizations will hold sessions; the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists, the American Association for Thoracic Surgery, the American Opthamological Society, the American Otological Society, the American Neurological Society, the American Gynecological Society, the American Larnygological Association, the American Surgical Association, the American Climatological and Clinical Association, the Association of American Physicians, the American Association of Genitourinary Surgeons, the American Orthopedic Association and the congress itself.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., will present new aspects of intestinal surgery at a session of the American Surgical Association at the National Museum today.

Clarence Callette Heads Suburban P.-T.A. Unit

Clarence Callette was elected president of the Mount Rainier-Brentwood Parent-Teacher Associations last night.

Edwin Shepherd was chosen vice president; Miss Mary Moffett, secretary, and Mrs. C. J. Balzell, treasurer.

HOUSE PROBE ASKED ON CADET UNIFORMS

Board of Education Said to Be Restricting Bids to One Company.

A House District Committee investigation of the Board of Education's methods in letting contracts on high school cadet uniforms yesterday was asked of Chairman Mary T. Norton by Albert E. Steinem, Washington attorney.

Mr. Steinem charged that the board for the last few years has been using one clothing contractor, and has not been permitting other contractors to bid competitively. After two New Jersey and Pennsylvania manufacturers complained to him, the lawyer said he took the matter up with the Board of Education.

He forwarded to Mrs. Norton the board's student activities committee's report as of May 3, stating that the present contract should not be now terminated, but that the question of receiving proposals for a new contract might be considered in the spring of 1934.

RENOVIZE CAMPAIGN WILL BE PLACED IN HANDS OF DIRECTOR

Competition Closes Today on Design to Remodel Dilapidated House.

Decision to name a director for the Washington Renovize Campaign was reached last night.

The director will be selected by a committee composed of William W. Everett, H. L. Rust, jr., and Fleming Newbold, probably within the next two days. Success of the Philadelphia campaign was ascribed to the fact that it had a director, and this encouraged the local campaign council to follow suit.

Arthur B. Heaton, general chairman, expressed enthusiasm last night over the progress of the campaign. He revealed that the sale of paints has jumped to a considerable extent in the past two weeks.

Design Deadline Today.

Five p. m. today is the deadline for entries in the competition for a design for renovizing the dilapidated little house recently placed at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Mailed entries addressed to 221 Star Building must be postmarked before midnight.

Selection of the winning design will be followed by the selection of a design committee, with the winner as chairman. Work on the house will start immediately. Material, labor and supervision have all been volunteered, and a close tab will be kept that the public may be informed of the actual cost of each operation.

Purpose to Aid Jobless.

Answering persons who seem to be under the impression that the object of the campaign is to extract money, Mr. Heaton pointed out that the sole aim is to produce work to help the unemployed, and, incidentally, to get that much more money back into circulation.

Property owners are asked to make any necessary repairs at this time when labor and material are cheaper than at any period in recent years, Mr. Heaton explained. The repairs, it is requested, should be made by a contractor selected by the property owner. The only expenditure to be made by a property owner will be for these repairs, Mr. Heaton emphasized.

Through the District of Columbia Bankers Association, property owners may borrow up to $500 for renovizing work.

The new

won't cut into

and its secret is an almost invisible quarter inch of LASTEX over the instep . . .

NOW you can dance painlessly, take long swinging walks, and even indulge in long talks without furtively slipping off your operas under the divan. For no longer can the snooty opera unmercifully cut your high (or even lowly) instep. A boon to limping ladies, the lastex inset smoothly and gently adjusts itself to the contour of your arch. And the price of all this peace of mind is only $4.95

The Hecht Co.'s lastex pumps come in black, brown and white kidskin, and in black patent. Sizes 3½ to 8, widths AAA to B.
